

FREAKISH STORMS TAKE MANY LIVES

RELIEF CREWS RUSH TO GEORGIA TOWNS; MANY IN HOSPITALS

Twisters Followed By High Winds; Wires
Are Down

ATLANTA, Ga., April 26.—Over crippled and falling wires came incomplete reports today of the human and material toll of freakish windstorms which swept a group of central Georgia towns and several northwestern communities of South Carolina.

The reports carried a known toll of at least twenty-six dead and 250 injured, distributed as follows:

Cochran, Ga., 5 dead; more than 100 injured.
Chester, Ga., 1 dead; 20 injured.
Metter, Ga., and vicinity, 4 dead; 50 injured.
Antioch, Ga., 2 dead; 10 injured.
Dexter, Ga., and vicinity, 4 dead; 40 injured.
Barnes, S. C., 1 dead; 10 injured.
Pelzer, S. C., 2 dead; 20 injured.

The twisters struck south central Georgia late yesterday afternoon, rising out of the west. High windstorms recurred at several communities several hours later, taking an additional toll of dead and injured. The series of storms moved from the same general direction later to strike near Spartansburg, S. C., and smaller communities in the northwestern section of that state.

Relief crews of doctors, nurses, and workmen moved to the stricken area by automobile, by horse and in many instances on foot where roads became impassable because of fallen trees and debris. Doctors, railroad stations and private homes were transformed into temporary hospitals. At Metter, Cochran and Dexter, Ga., more than 200 injured were treated in the improvised first aid stations.

MACON, Ga., April 26.—Unconfirmed reports reached today that fourteen persons had been killed at Statesboro, Ga., in the eastern part of the state, during yesterday's tornado.

WIFE ARRESTED FOR HUSBAND'S MURDER DENIES SHOOTING

Admits She Married For Money—Says Victim
Was "Crab"

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., April 26.—Mrs. Gladys Beardslee, an attractive, auburn-haired young woman of 27, was under arrest as a material witness today in connection with the death of Oliver Beardslee, her 51-year-old husband.

A dramatic scene was promised for this afternoon, when Mrs. Beardslee, refusing to take advantage of Connecticut laws which provide that a woman may not be forced to testify at an inquest into her husband's death, submits to questioning at the official inquiry called to decide whether or not Beardslee committed suicide.

Mrs. Beardslee maintains that her husband, whom she says she married only for his money, shot himself after a long period of drinking and quarreling.

The wife recovered from her state of violent intoxication today talked to nurses about the case.

"They think I shot my husband," she said. "I didn't do it but they are blaming me for it. They haven't got a clue against me."

He was an old crab, I guess I should never have married him. Youth and old age don't mix.

"Anyway, I only married him for his money."

OHIO ACCEPTS GIFT OF HATCHERY SITE

COLUMBUS, O., April 26.—The state of Ohio formally accepted Findlay's gift of a fish hatchery site today when Governor Cooper signed the bill of Rep. George M. Forney, Hancock County.

The enactment of the law does not mean that the new hatchery will be constructed immediately. Director of Agriculture Perry L. Green told the United Press.

Hatcheries now in operation can be increased in capacity from 15 to 30 per cent, Green said. The director favors enlarging the present breeding places before instituting new ones.

The Forney bill was necessary before the state can take steps toward erection of a new hatchery if such a decision is made before the convening of the next legislature, Green pointed out.

CLERK SENTENCED

CLEVELAND, O., April 26.—Leroy St. Clair, clerk of the Lake Wood Municipal Court, was called into court here today to receive sentence on charges of embezzling $4,333.63 of Lakewood funds. St. Clair pleaded guilty when arraigned.

SENATE MAY DECIDE HARDY CASE BEFORE NIGHT IS BELIEVED

Impeachment Trial
Closes With Appeal
By Defendant

SACRAMENTO, Calif., April 26.—The fate of Superior Judge Carlos S. Hardy, charged with misconduct of office in connection with the mysterious Almee Semple McPherson kidnapping cases, was in the hands of the California Senate Court of Impeachment today.

Before tonight the accused jurist probably will know whether the legislative jury has decided to remove him from office on the charge that he accepted as a legal fee a $2,500 check from the Angel Temple evangelist.

Judge Hardy's extended trial came to a dramatic close last night. As the fiery-haired Mrs. McPherson sought in vain to control her tears, the white-haired jurist made a stirring appeal for the court to recognize his activities for the evangelist as those of "friendship."

Since the near-midnight session Tuesday when she smilingly countered with "I cannot remember" all prosecution questions, the evangelist of the four square gospel had been in the spotlight.

She had been embarrassed by the order of the president of the senate court forbidding members of the court to converse with her. Several legislators were reprimanded after the president had seen them chatting with the evangelist in the corridor.

She had borne the brunt of the prosecution's final pleas and had given way to tears when Assemblyman William Hornblower assailed her kidnapping story as an "unmitigated fabrication."

In a closing argument, had said "We would not ask the senate to convict on the basis of this check, alone."

"Consider the condition of affairs, however, when the check was received," Little continued. "Our opinion is that Judge Hardy was given that check to make a trip to see the Santa Barbara newspaperman, Wallace Moore and to intimidate his testimony that he had seen Mrs. McPherson and Kenneth G. Ormiston in a machine near Santa Barbara on the night the evangelist disappeared."

"We further believe that the check was to be used to allow Judge Hardy to arrange with Mrs. Semple for the procuring of a woman who would say that she occupied the cottage at Carmel with Ormiston—the 'Miss X' in other words—that $2,500 was expense money."

Rex Hardy, son of the accused jurist, made an eloquent plea for his father but it was far overshadowed by the dramatic appeal of the aged judge himself.

"Senators, this is a solemn moment for me. I have raised three boys to manhood and two girls to womanhood," Judge Hardy said. "I have several grandchildren. At my age in life about all I have left is my good name. And now as the shadows begin to gather around me this falls upon me."

Party Opponents In Dis- may Over Heavy House Approval

WASHINGTON, April 26.—A widening split appeared in Democratic ranks over the farm relief issue today as the house sent President Hoover's farm program to the senate labeled with the extraordinary 367 to 34 majority approval.

Seldom has an administration issue received such an overwhelming endorsement. Only thirty-two of the 166 Democrats in the house opposed it, and only two Republicans. More than 100 Democrats voted for the bill, the rest being absent.

The house vote threw dismay into Democratic ranks in the senate. There a last stand rally was being organized behind the debenture plan. Sentiment among the Democrats of the upper house was not sufficiently strong to endorse the debenture as a party issue, but up to this time only four or five Democrats have been reported against the plan. Now there will be more.

Sentiment for the administration bill is by no means as strong in the senate as it was in the house, but the senate forces of the administration have been strengthened and there is little doubt now but what the debenture fight will come to grief.

The house vote is being interpreted by senate leaders as meaning the house will not accept the debenture amendment under any conditions and they believe it indicates bi-partisan sentiment is strongly favorable to the $500,000, 000 co-operative marketing bill.

With the Democrats split, the farm bloc divided and administration forces drawing closer together, it appears likely Mr. Hoover will have an opportunity within the next two or three weeks of signing a farm bill to his liking.

The senate was to take up the debate again today after it votes on the Heflin resolution proposing to express the condemnation of the senate upon the unidentified person who threw a bottle at Senator Heflin, Alabama, at Brockton, Mass. recently when he delivered a speech under the auspices of the Ku Klux Klan.

The resolution has stirred some religious debate in answer to Heflin's attacks but leaders do not regard the resolution as serious politically.

The house is holding a brief session today to enact a bill appropriating federal funds to be loaned to fruit farmers in Florida districts infested by the fruit fly. After passage of the bill the house will adjourn until Monday when the tariff bill is expected to be ready.

The Hoover steamroller functioned perfectly up to the final roll call on the farm bill late yesterday. The debenture plan offered as an amendment by Rep. Jones, Democrat, Texas, was ruled out of order and no vote was taken on it. An effort to send the bill back to committee was smothered 302 to 63. Of the sixty-nine amendments proposed only three were adopted, and these three were minor clarifying amendments offered and sponsored by friends of the bill.

As passed by the house the bill provides for a federal farm board of seven members, including the secretary of agriculture. Six members would be appointed by the president and would receive $12,000 a year. Salary of the chairman would not be limited, in order that Mr. Hoover may select a high caliber executive.

Advisory councils are to be appointed to represent each commodity. Stabilization corporations would be organized to buy up surplus crops and provide for orderly marketing.

The senate bill, exclusive of the debenture plan, differs in some details.

BOARD CONSIDERS FEDERAL PAROLES

WASHINGTON, April 26.—The department of justice today announced that at a recent meeting of the parole board at the Chillicothe, O., federal reformatory 106 cases for parole were considered.

Sixty-four of the cases were continued, twenty-four favorably recommended, sixteen denied and one revoked, the department announced.

No details of the paroles were disclosed.

The department also announced that Brube Kochynsky, who escaped from the state penitentiary at Columbus, has been located in San Jose, Calif. Kochynsky was arrested in San Jose under the name of Bernard Kaven.

THE SEAMANS SAIL ON HONEYMOON

Phyllis Haver, screen star and her new husband, Billy Seaman, prominent New York business man, are on their way to Europe on their honeymoon following their marriage Wednesday night at the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Ruba Goldberg in New York. Mayor Jimmy Walker, an old friend of Seaman, performed the ceremony. They sailed on the Cunarder.

GOVERNOR SIGNS MUNICIPAL COURT BILL; VETOES SIXTEEN

Xenia Measure Approved With Thirty-One Other
Bills; Chain Store Measure Is Vetoed;
Forty-Three Not Voted Upon

COLUMBUS, O., April 26.—Governor Myers Y. Cooper swung the veto axe with deadly effect today, killing sixteen bills enacted by the eighty-eighth general assembly.

At the same time, however, the governor signed thirty-one bills, leaving a total of forty-three to be acted upon.

Among the bills vetoed were the Bender bill to provide more drastic regulation of privately-owned, fee-charging employment agencies; the Gillen bill permitting county commissioners to assume assessments made against abutting property for state highways; the Ackerman bill raising the pay of guards at state institutions, and the Emory bill aimed at chain grocery and drug stores.

The list of measures signed included five creating additional common pleas judges in Hamilton, Mahoning, Montgomery, and Franklin Counties and creating municipal courts in Conneaut and Xenia.

Other measures signed included: The Sharp bill, changing the open season on squirrels from Sept. 15 to Oct. 1 and abolishing the present closed season in odd years.

The Hadden bill authorizing the recording and copying of official documents by photographic processes in counties with 50,000 population or over.

The Hyre bill giving metropolitan park boards additional authority to acquire lands for park purposes.

The Dinsmore bill exempting from the state excise tax the earnings of motor bus lines operated by street railways, interurbans and railroads.

The Marshall bill requiring city school boards to maintain pension funds for school custodians, contributing one-twentieth of one per cent of the tax revenue to the fund while custodians will pay 2 per cent of their annual salaries.

Governor Cooper said he vetoed the Bender employment agency bill "because it was too drastic." The Ackerman bill to raise the pay of institution guards was vetoed because provision for increases is made in the general appropriations act, he said.

In vetoing the Emory "chain-store" bill the governor said that under its provisions "almost any dealer could be easily tricked into being a wholesaler through no fault of his own."

Other measures killed included: The Ray-Metcalf bill authorizing ousted civil service employees to appeal to the Franklin County Common Pleas Court when the civil service commission disagreed on their appeals.

Ackerman bill amending the present weights and measures law.

Ingalls bill reducing from four to two years the foreclosure time on tax-delinquent real estate and authorizing the sale of delinquent tax certificates.

Herbert bill making stocks of Ohio corporations owned by non-residents of the state subject to the state inheritance tax laws.

Lear bill permitting county commissioners to use gasoline tax revenue to finance installation of safety devices at crossings.

The lease, which was signed Dec. 19, 1928, called for an annual rental of $2,330.28. The bill sought to reduce this to $532.67.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 26.—Over crippled and falling wires came incomplete reports today of the human and material toll of freakish windstorms which swept a group of central Georgia towns and several northwestern communities of South Carolina.

The reports carried a known toll of at least twenty-six dead and 250 injured, distributed as follows:

Cochran, Ga., 5 dead; more than 100 injured.
Chester, Ga., 1 dead; 20 injured.
Metter, Ga., and vicinity, 4 dead; 50 injured.
Antioch, Ga., 2 dead; 10 injured.
Dexter, Ga., and vicinity, 4 dead; 40 injured.
Enoree, S. C., 1 dead; 10 injured.
Pelzer, S. C., 2 dead; 20 injured.

The twisters struck south central Georgia late yesterday afternoon, rising out of the west. High windstorms occurred at several communities several hours later, taking an additional toll of dead and injured. The series of storms moved from the same general direction later to strike near Spartansburg, S. C., and smaller communities in the northwestern section of that state.

Relief crews of doctors, nurses, and workmen moved to the stricken area by automobile, by horse and in many instances on foot where roads became impassable because of fallen trees and debris. Drug stores, railroad stations, and private homes were transformed into temporary hospitals. At Metter, Cochran and Dexter, Ga., more than 200 injured were treated in the improvised first aid stations.

WIFE ARRESTED FOR HUSBAND'S MURDER DENIES SHOOTING

Admits She Married For
Money—Says Victim
Was "Crab"

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., April 26.—Mrs. Gladys Beardslee, an attractive, auburn-haired young woman of 27, was under arrest as a material witness today in connection with the death of Oliver Beardslee, her 51-year-old husband.

A dramatic scene was promised for this afternoon, when Mrs. Beardslee, refusing to take advantage of Connecticut laws which provide that a woman may not be forced to testify at an inquest into her husband's death, submits to questioning at the official inquiry called to decide whether or not Beardslee committed suicide.

Mrs. Beardslee maintains that her husband, whom she says she married only for his money, shot himself after a long period of drinking and quarreling. The wife recovered from her state of violent intoxication today talked to nurses about the case.

"They think I shot my husband," she said. "I didn't do it but they blame me for it. They haven't got a case against me."

"He was an old crab. I guess I should never have married him. Youth and old age don't mix. Anyway, I only married him for his money."

OHIO ACCEPTS GIFT OF HATCHERY SITE

COLUMBUS, O., April 26.—The state of Ohio formally accepted Findlay's gift of a fish hatchery site today when Governor Cooper signed the bill of Rep. George M. Forney, Hancock County.

The enactment of the law does not mean that a new hatchery will be constructed immediately. Director of Agriculture Perry L. Green told the United Press.

Hatcheries now in operation can be increased in capacity from 15 to 30 per cent, Green said. The director favors enlarging the present breeding places before instituting new ones.

The Forney bill was necessary before the state can take steps towards erection of a new hatchery if such a decision is made before the convening of the next legislature, Green pointed out.

SENATE MAY DECIDE HARDY CASE BEFORE NIGHT IS BELIEVED

Impeachment Trial
Closes With Appeal
By Defendant

SACRAMENTO, Calif., April 26.—The fate of Superior Judge Carlos S. Hardy, charged with misconduct of office in connection with the mysterious Almee Semple McPherson kidnapping cases, was in the hands of the California Senate Court of Impeachment today.

Before tonight the accused jurist probably will know whether the legislative jury has decided to remove him from office on the charge that he accepted as a legal fee a $2,500 check from the Angelus Temple evangelist.

Judge Hardy's extended trial came to a dramatic close last night. As the fiery-haired jurist sought in vain to control his tears, the white-haired jurist made a stirring appeal for the court to recognize his activities for the evangelist as those of "friendship."

Since the near-midnight session Tuesday when she smilingly countered with "I cannot remember" all prosecution questions, the evangelist of the four square gospel had been in the spotlight.

She had been embarrassed by the order of the president of the senate court forbidding members of the court to converse with her. Several legislators were repudiated after the president had seen them chatting with the evangelist in the corridor.

She had borne the brunt of the prosecution's final pleas and had given way to tears when Assemblyman William Hornblower urged her kidnapping story as an "unmitigated fabrication."

Assemblyman William Little, in a closing argument, had said "We would not ask the senate to convict on the basis of this check, alone."

"Consider the condition of affairs, however, when the check was received," Little continued. "Our opinion is that Judge Hardy was given that check to make a trip to see the Santa Barbara newspaperman, Wallace Moore and to intimidate his testimony that he had seen Mrs. McPherson and Kenneth G. Ormiston in a machine near Santa Barbara on the night the evangelist disappeared."

"We further believe that the check was to be used to allow Judge Hardy to arrange with Mrs. Selloff for the procuring of a woman who would say that she occupied the cottage at Carmel with Ormiston—the 'Miss X' in other words—that $2,500 was expense money."

Rex Hardy, son of the accused jurist, made an eloquent plea for his father but it was far overshadowed by the dramatic appeal of the aged judge himself.

"Senators, this is a solemn moment for me. I have raised three boys to manhood and two girls to womanhood," Judge Hardy said. "I have several grandchildren. At my age in life about all I have left is my good name. And now, as the shadows begin to gather around me this falls upon me."

Party Opponents In Dis- may Over Heavy House Approval

WASHINGTON, April 26.—A widening split appeared in Democratic ranks over the farm relief issue today as the house sent President Hoover's farm program to the senate labeled with the extraordinary 367 to 34 majority approval.

Seldom has an administration issue received such an overwhelming endorsement. Only thirty-two of the 166 Democrats in the house opposed it, and only two Republicans. More than 100 Democrats voted for the bill, the rest being absent.

The house vote threw dismay into Democratic ranks in the senate. There a last stand rally was being organized behind the debenture plan. Sentiment among the Democrats of the upper house was not sufficiently strong to endorse the debenture as a party issue, but up to this time only four or five Democrats have been reported against the plan. Now there will be more.

Sentiment for the administration bill is by no means as strong in the senate as it was in the house, but the senate forces of the administration have been strengthened and there is little doubt now but what the debenture fight will come to grief.

The house vote is being interpreted by senate leaders as meaning the house will not accept the debenture amendment under any conditions and they believe it indicates bipartisan sentiment is strongly favorable to the $500,000,000 co-operative marketing bill.

With the Democrats split, the farm bloc divided and administration forces drawing closer together, it appears likely Mr. Hoover will have an opportunity within the next two or three weeks of signing a farm bill to his liking.

The senate was to take up the debate again today after it votes on the Heflin resolution proposing to express the condemnation of the senate upon the unidentified person who threw a bottle at Senator Heflin, Alabama, at Brockton, Mass. recently when he delivered a speech under the auspices of the Ku Klux Klan.

The resolution has stirred some religious debate in answer to Heflin's attacks but leaders do not regard the resolution as serious politically.

The house is holding a brief session today to enact a bill appropriating federal funds to be loaned to fruit farmers in Florida districts infested by the fruit fly. After passage of the bill the house will adjourn until Monday when the tariff bill is expected to be ready.

The Hoover steamroller functioned perfectly up to the final roll call on the farm bill last night. The debenture plan offered as an amendment by Rep. Jones, Democrat, Texas, was ruled out of order and no vote was taken on it. An effort to send the bill back to committee was smothered 302 to 63. Of the sixty-nine amendments proposed only three were adopted, and these three were minor clarifying amendments offered and sponsored by friends of the bill.

As passed by the house the bill provides for a federal farm board of seven members, including the secretary of agriculture. Six members would be appointed by the president and would receive $12,000 a year. Salary of the chairman would not be limited, in order that Mr. Hoover may select a high caliber executive.

Advisory councils are to be appointed to represent each commodity. Stabilization corporations also are to be organized to buy up surplus crops and provide for orderly marketing.

The senate bill, exclusive of the debenture plan, differs in some details.

BOARD CONSIDERS FEDERAL PAROLES

WASHINGTON, April 26.—The department of justice today announced that at a recent meeting of the parole board at the Chillicothe, O., federal reformatory 106 cases for parole were considered.

Sixty-four of the cases were continued, twenty-four favorably recommended, sixteen denied and one revoked, the department announced.

No details of the paroles were disclosed.

The department also announced that Brune Kochynsky, who escaped from the state penitentiary at Columbus, has been located in San Jose, Calif. Kochynsky was arrested in San Jose under the name of Bernard Kaven.

THE SEAMANS SAIL ON HONEYMOON

Phyllis Haver, screen star and her new husband, Billy Seaman, prominent New York business man, are on their way to Europe on their honeymoon following their marriage Wednesday night at the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Rube Goldberg in New York. Mayor Jimmy Walker, an old friend of Seaman, performed the ceremony. They sailed on the Cunarder.

GOVERNOR SIGNS MUNICIPAL COURT BILL; VETOES SIXTEEN

Xenia Measure Approved With Thirty-One Other
Bills; Chain Store Measure Is Vetoed;
Forty-Three Not Voted Upon

COLUMBUS, O., April 26.—Governor Myers Y. Cooper swung the veto axe with deadly effect today, killing sixteen bills enacted by the eighty-eighth general assembly.

At the same time, however, the governor signed thirty-one bills, leaving a total of forty-three to be acted upon.

Among the bills vetoed were the Bender bill to provide more drastic regulation of privately-owned, fee-charging employment agencies; the Gillen bill permitting county commissioners to assume assessments made against abutting property for state highways; the Acle bill raising the pay of guards at state institutions; and the Emory bill aimed at chain grocery and drug stores.

The list of measures signed included five creating additional common pleas judges in Hamilton, Mahoning, Montgomery, and Franklin Counties and creating municipal courts in Conneaut and Xenia.

Other measures signed included: The Sharp bill, changing the open season on squirrels from Sept. 15 to Oct. 1 and abolishing the present closed season in odd years.

The Hadden bill authorizing the recording and copying of official documents by photographic processes in counties with 50,000 population or over.

The Hyde bill giving metropolitan park boards additional authority to acquire lands for park purposes.

The Dismore bill exempting from the state excise tax the earnings of motor bus lines operated by street railways, interurbans and railroads.

The Sullivan bill giving the state tax commission more authority in the enforcement of the gasoline tax law and making the present law more drastic as it relates to dealers seeking to evade the tax.

The Vail bill, the "uniform guardian" measure for the benefit of war veterans, sponsored by the American Legion.

The Marshall bill requiring city school boards to maintain pension funds for school custodians, contributing one-twentieth of one per cent of the tax revenue to the fund while custodians will pay 2 per cent of their annual salaries.

Governor Cooper said he vetoed the Bender employment agency bill "because it was too drastic."

The Ackerman bill to raise the pay of institution guards was vetoed because provision for increases is made in the general appropriations act, he said.

In vetoing the emery "chain-store" bill the governor said that under its provisions "almost any dealer could be easily tricked into being a wholesaler through no fault of his own."

Other measures killed included: The Ray-Metcalf bill authorizing ousted civil service employees to appeal to the Franklin County Common Pleas Court when the civil service commission disagreed on their appeals.

Ackerman bill amending the present weights and measures law. Ingalls bill reducing from four to two years the foreclosure time on tax-delinquent real estate and authorizing the sale of delinquent tax certificates.

Herbert bill making stocks of Ohio corporations owned by non-residents of the state subject to the state inheritance tax laws.

Lear bill permitting county commissioners to use gasoline tax revenue to finance installation of safety devices at crossings.

WIND SWEEPS OHIO; THREE DEAD; HEAVY DAMAGE REPORTED

Storm Takes Zig-Zag Course In State; Akron Area Hit

By The United Press
A freak storm which attained cyclonic proportions in some sections, ripped a zig-zag course through Ohio yesterday and last night, leaving a toll of three known dead, one seriously injured and heavy property damage.

The Akron-Medina-Ravenna area appeared hardest hit, on the basis of reports received today although the storm cut a wide swath through other areas.

The dead:
Mrs. Sarah Miller, 75, killed at Millersburg, when a motorist blinded by a driving rain ran her down.
George Hruby, Cleveland news boy, struck by lightning when he sought shelter under a tree.
Mrs. Frank Schultz, 50, of near Medina, killed when trapped in a chicken house with her husband, and a small son. Schultz was injured seriously.

The chicken house was reduced to wreckage and as it collapsed an oil heater overturned and set fire to the debris.

Considerable damage was reported from Akron, Kent, and Ravenna.

A privately owned airplane and hangar at Barboursport were shattered. The roof of the structure was hurled fifty feet over an adjoining four-foot fence.

At the Akron Municipal Golf Course a barn collapsed burying two truck horses beneath the debris.

F. C. Yost, who has charge of the links, reported seeing a funnel-shaped mass moving near the property.

The poultry farm of L. J. Libbis, of Akron, was struck and 800 chickens were killed.

Stow field, at Stow, reported a sixty-five-mile-an-hour wind.

Several persons were reported injured, none seriously.

The storm first struck in northwestern Ohio and roared through Van Wert, Toledo, Findlay, Lima and intermediate points.

The storm then took a zigzag course through the state, striking Wilmington, Columbus and points on the upper Ohio River.

Huge hail stones fell in the Wilmington area and at Buckeye Lake the wind attained a velocity of seventy-five miles an hour.

Newark also was struck. Lightning struck and ignited a barn near Wooster, destroying sixteen sheep, fourteen lambs, a horse and a cow. One hundred tons of hay also were burned.

High winds and pelting rain also swept the Great Lakes area. Streets in Cleveland were flooded and trees were snapped off.

Two homes were struck by lightning during the storm.

SEEK CLUBBER OF TWO WOMEN

AKRON, O., April 26.—Search was resumed today for a clubber who attacked two women here with the week.

The second victim, Miss Dorothy Menches, 20, Akron University co-ed, was struck down last night after alighting from a bus.

The girl said the clubber, a young man, stepped out of the darkness and without warning struck her down. She fell unconscious.

Mrs. Nina King, 23, underwent a similar experience early Sunday. The attacks occurred in the north hill district where police have been searching for a "peeping Tom."

GOVERNOR REFUSES TO REDUCE RENTAL

COLUMBUS, O., April 26.—Sidney's rental of the part of the Miami and Erie Canal within the municipality should not be reduced less than a year from the signing of the lease, Governor Cooper declared today in vetoing a bill of Rep. F. P. Elsass, Shelby County.

The governor pointed out that in cases where the rental for the unused canal had been lowered, the city had made some improvement such as the construction of a highway along the route, Sidney has done nothing of the kind, Cooper said.

The lease, which was signed Dec. 19, 1928, called for an annual rental of $2,250.28. The bill sought to reduce this to $532.67.

ATTORNEY KILLED
DAYTON, O., April 26.—Thomas O. Nelson, 60, prominent Dayton attorney, was killed near London yesterday when his car was forced from the road by a truck and turned over. His chauffeur, Edward Mitchell, Negro, escaped with minor injuries.

TWENTY-SIX KILLED AND HUNDREDS HURT IN TORNADO SERIES

Georgia And South Carolina Worst Hit; Blizzards
Isolate Western States; Rivers Swollen
By Rains.

By The United Press
The violence of the elements, expressed in freakish tornadoes, blizzards and rain storms and resultant floods was felt in a major portion of the United States today.

Seven communities of central Georgia and northwestern South Carolina reported at least twenty-six dead and 250 injured in a series of tornadoes which followed similar storms earlier in the week in Texas, Arkansas, Mississippi and Missouri.

Wyoming and parts of Colorado were still virtually isolated by blizzards and unseasonable snow storms. One rancher was frozen to death. Air, rail and vehicular traffic was paralyzed. Stock suffered heavily.

The mighty Mississippi and its tributaries, swollen by continued rains, threatened river towns in Iowa, Illinois and Missouri. Crumbling dikes and levees at Quincy, Ill., Canton and Hannibal, Mo., threatened to further inundate populated lowlands where nearly 2,000 already are homeless.

Lake Michigan was beating destructively against the lake walls north of Chicago, threatening damage to beach colonies and coast guard stations. One man was rescued from the lake when his small boat was overturned in the turbulent waters.

CLEVELAND POLICE CONTINUE DRIVE ON LIQUOR AND GUNMEN

Smash 11 Barrooms;
Eighty-Six Are Arrested

CLEVELAND, April 26.—Eleven barrooms smashed, sixteen persons charged with liquor law violation, forty held "for investigation" in connection with liquor raids and thirty held "for investigation" on general principles, today constituted the work done by police and detectives in the past twenty-four hours, as they sought to avenge the bomb attacks directed at two policemen by bootleggers.

Damage done by police wrecking crews exceeded that done by bootleggers' bombs by several multiples. It was the East side that suffered, and little short of fire or tornado could have inflicted equal damage.

Detective Inspector Cornelius W. Cody led the gang that devastated the barrooms. Ordinarily the detective bureau is not concerned with liquor law violations, but bombings are something else.

"Go out and get them," Safety Director Edwin D. Barry had ordered and the detectives took the order seriously.

He enlisted the "hard guys" of his department. Four were sergeants—John Mack, Anthony Koryta, Emil Emethana and Frank Perrell. Detective Otty Meyer and Nathan Wachts completed the wrecking crew.

Sergeant Mack, one of the three against whom recent bomb attacks have been directed, was the "life of the party" in the words of his fellow raiders.

The crew returned to central station early today grimy and tired. When the raiders invaded the barrooms, they first smashed glassware. Then the bar was upset and attacked with axes. Kindling made of chairs followed, and after that mirrors and plate glass fronts were shattered.

Johnson's bill is identical with a measure introduced in the house by Rep. R. D. Williamson, Xenia. As the senate acted first upon the Riggs law amendment, the latter bill was not brought up.

A "wildcat" tuberculosis testing bill introduced by Rep. George H. Bellinger, Akron, never came out of the house committee. It would have given the owner of slaughtered cattle not less than the full appraisal value and not more than three times that amount on registered stock.

YOUTH SENTENCED

YOUNGSTOWN, April 26.—Harold Harshman, 15, who confessed he kidnapped 10-year-old Beatrice Rosenbaum last summer, then repudiated the confession, was sent to the boys industrial school at Lancaster today to serve an indeterminate term for passing worthless checks. Harshman created a sensation a few days ago when he confessed abducting the child who was found dead. Later, in denying his story, he admitted he was "seeking publicity."

BOY HANGS SELF
BELLEFONTAINE, April 26.—Police today were seeking a motive for the suicide of Francis Huhlen, 16, who hanged himself in the barn at his home near here. Relatives could advance no motive.

CONVENTION ENDS
DAYTON, O., April 26.—Delegates to the thirty-third annual convention of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs returned to their homes today after bringing the convention to a close.

FUMES ARE FATAL
TOLEDO, April 26.—Allen B. Hamilton, 28, is dead here from carbon monoxide fumes. Hamilton was asphyxiated after he started his car in a closed garage.

COOPER SIGNS BILL LEGALIZING RIGGS INDEMNITY CLAUSE

Classed As Victory For State In Cattle Testing Fight.

COLUMBUS, O., April 26.—The state department of agriculture gained an important victory in its fight for the eradication of tuberculosis in cattle when Governor Cooper today signed the bill of Sen. Davis B. Johnson amending the Riggs law.

The bill incorporates into the law a working agreement on indemnity under which the department has been operating.

The new clause endorses the department's stand that the owner of a slaughtered reactor to the tuberculosis test is to receive two-thirds the difference between the appraised value of the cow and the salvage value of the carcass.

In no case, however, is the state to pay more than $70 for purebred stock and $35 for grade. No compensation is allowed for steers and grade bulls.

The indemnity allowed by the federal agriculture department will bring the sum paid the owner above the state department maximum. A stipulation of the new law permits the state to exceed the $70 and $35 limits if the federal fund is exhausted.

Johnson's bill is identical with a measure introduced in the house by Rep. R. D. Williamson, Xenia. As the senate acted first upon the Riggs law amendment, the latter bill was not brought up.

A "wildcat" tuberculosis testing bill introduced by Rep. George H. Bellinger, Akron, never came out of the house committee. It would have given the owner of slaughtered cattle not less than the full appraisal value and not more than three times that amount on registered stock.

THREE HURT AS PLANE CRASHES

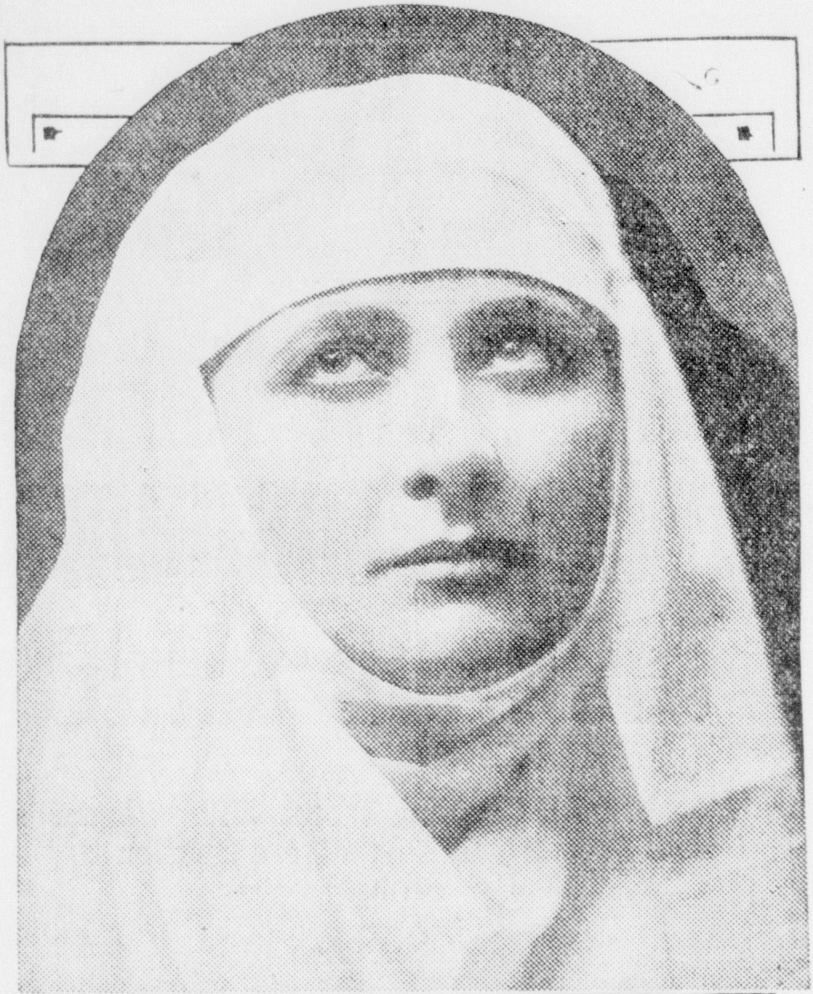

TOLEDO, O., April 26.—Three men were in a hospital here today with serious injuries received when their plane crashed near the municipal airport. The crash occurred five minutes after they had taken off in the face of a raging storm.

The men are W. T. Inlow, 35, Toledo, pilot, broken right leg, fractured left ankle, and cuts and bruises; T. W. Harland, 48, Detroit and New York, fractured back, both legs broken, cuts and bruises, and J. D. Kenyon, 45, Detroit, both legs broken, cut about the head and body.

The three are employees of the Curtis School of Aviation near De Troy. Inlow is an official pilot, Harland is a construction engineer, and Kenyon is a business representative of the school.

GOT THOSE AMARILLO BLUES

But Mary Garden Not Worried By Caustic Criticisms Of Texas Editor

By ROY J. GIBBONS
Staff Writer for Central Press
CHICAGO, April 25. — They're singing those Amarillo blues here now because Thais and temperament have gotten Mary Garden, famed diva and star of the Chicago Civic Opera Company all messed up in an artistic cyclone that has blown first hot and then cold all the way from Amarillo, Tex.

That's the home of Gene Howe, doughy editor, and self-acknowledged critic, so Mary calls him, of everything ranging from Charles Lindbergh, at whom Howe took a couple of cracks not so long ago, to alleged missing scores from the opera Thais, which showed on tour in Amarillo with Mary in the leading role.

Said Editor Howe, wielding his pointed pen: This lady called Mary is a lot of applesauce. She's so old she totters. Likewise, they cut Thais when they gave it in their dear old Amarillo. What do they think we are? A lot of hicks?

OF COURSE, Editor Howe didn't put it in just those words, or in just that way. But he did say that Mary was so old she almost tottered from the stage, and he did imply that the Chicago troupe thought they could delete an opera and get away with it just because they were in the so-called sticks.

It was a terrific jolt, and Mary took it on the chin forehead, although it is quite the first time she has never thus been publicly assailed. In her home adopted city of Chicago she rules the roost, and there's no mistaking that. "The local papers all label her "Our Mary." And she's not only famous, but almost a Chicago institution. To speak ill of her here would be nothing short of lese majesty.

Yes, it hurt her pride, but she never winced, and came back at Editor Howe with a couple of right jabs of her own make.

"Yes, I know he's read a book," said Mary. "But, oh, dear me, if he thinks I am old, how old is he to be wandering about with dyspepsia at his age?"

"We cut the opera, of course we did. We took out one long, dreadful scene from the third act that hasn't been shown in twenty years in this country. It's a scene that runs eleven minutes and is a repetition of themes in the first act. Even the composer, Massenet, they say, "The public still is as mad about her as ever." But there is the Amarillo incident. Amarillo guarantors of the opera's appearance in the Texas town held up payment of $1,600 for a time following the tip-off by Editor Howe that they hadn't been given their money's worth. They since have agreed to make up the deficit.

AS FOR Mary, the books of reference on such subjects say she was born in Aberdeen, Scotland, Feb. 20, 1877. Subtracted from the present A. D. year and date, this figures her age at 52. Mary, however, has quit the scene. The situation has gotten on her nerves. She's on the seas right now, en route to her chateau, called Beaulieu, in sunny France. There, as is her wont, for the next monsoon, she will sun-bathe in the sun and perhaps sing those Amarillo blues. Who can tell?

TOOK CATHARTICS EVERY NIGHT

Eating ALL-BRAN Relieved Constipation

Everybody who is slave to cathartics and laxatives will be interested in this letter—

"I took cathartic pills every night and enemas daily to relieve myself and take away the awful headaches I was subject to. Two months ago I started eating a large bowl of your ALL-BRAN with cream for breakfast and today I am in fine condition, better than I have been in three years. My bowels are regular every day. I have not taken one cathartic pill in two months."—Mrs. A. J. O'Connell, 52 Phelps Ave., Rochester, N. Y.

Constipation gets in its deadly work when bulk is left out of the diet. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, however, will supply this bulk. It sweeps the intestine clean and stimulates normal action. Two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal.

Thousands have regained their old-time vigor and relieved constipation forever by eating ALL-BRAN. Doctors recommend it.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is 100% bran. Ready-to-eat with milk or cream. Delicious recipes for muffins, breads, etc., on the package. Grocers sell it. Restaurants, hotels, dining-cars serve it. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

For the spectator at sports this costume was designed. A seven-eighths coat of plain basket weave cloth is worn with a contrasting frock of checked silk, linen, cotton or featherweight flannel. closed at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station. Native fine-wool lambs in the experiment made slower and costlier gains and required more feed for each 100 pounds of gain than either the native mutton or western lambs.

The heavier fleeces obtained from the native fine-wool lambs, it was explained by D. S. Bell, associate in animal industry, in discussing the results at the livestock day meeting at the station, aided the fine-wool group materially so that they were not unprofitable as feeders.

"The test indicates that under existing market prices for thin and fat native lambs, and if the feeder is willing to give the native lambs the attention they require, these lambs are profitable, at least for the small feeder."

The tests also pretty clearly demonstrated to the producers of thin native lambs that they could realize a greater profit on their sheep operations if they would market fat lambs. Why, it was asked, produce an unfinished product and let someone else realize the finishing profit?

ENGINEER TO HAVE CITY HALL OFFICE

A room in City Hall recently vacated by the Social Service League is being remodeled and fitted up for use by the city engineer.

City Auditor T. H. Zell said that there has been an urgent need for quarters for the city engineer and that the vacant room solves the difficulty.

AN ALL-STEEL REFRIGERATOR THE FIRST...THE ONLY ONE!

THIS General Electric is the only refrigerator built entirely of steel! Think what that means! It is sturdy and durable beyond anything that you ever believed a refrigerator could be.

This small-family model freezes a generous supply of food... and in a shorter time. One tray freezes in two hours, both trays in four. It uses less current because the cabinet is so efficient that cold does not leak out and heat does not creep in.

And, of course, it has the exclusive advantage of simplified mechanism, enclosed in an hermetically sealed steel casing and mounted on top. This leaves the greatest area available for food storage and makes possible the up-on-legs model which is so easy to clean under.

In operation it is extremely quiet. It never needs oiling. It is as portable as a piece of furniture. You just plug it into any convenient outlet. See all its unique features yourself. Come in today. And ask about the convenient plan on which it can be bought.

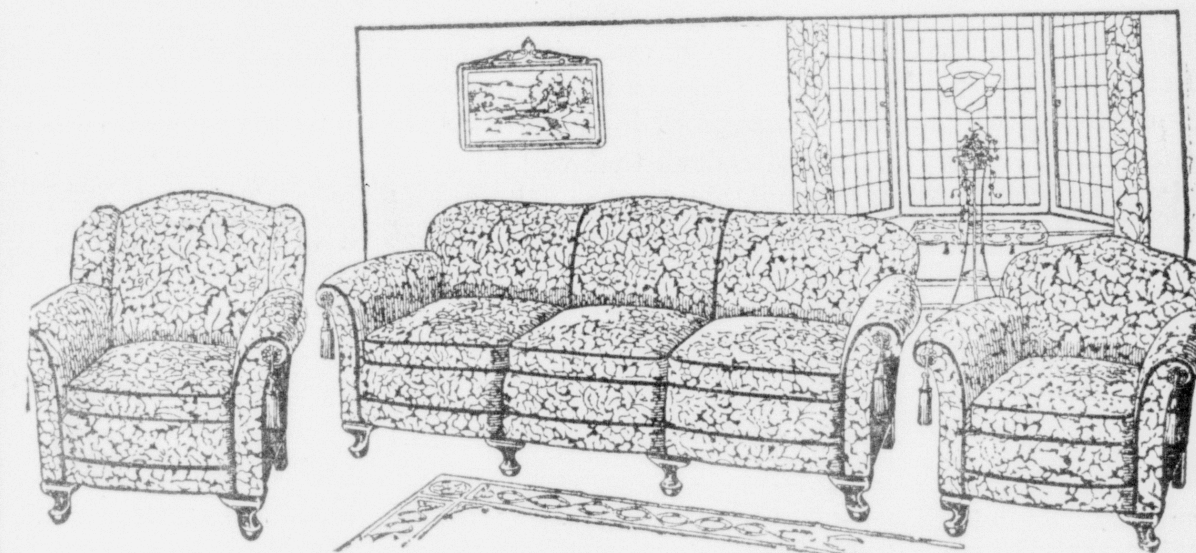

Listen in on the General Electric Hour, broadcast every Saturday evening, 9 to 10 Eastern Standard Time, over the N. B. C. network of forty-two stations.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

MAN'S EXEMPTED, GOD'S OPPORTUNITY — When my soul fainteth within me, I remembered the Lord: and my prayer came in unto thee, into thine holy temple.—Jonah 2:7.

TAKING IT OUT ON THE UMPIRE

The opening of the new baseball season brings up for study one of the most interesting of American phenomena—the almost religious fervor with which the average citizen, seated in a baseball stand, will hurl vocal abuse at the umpires.

Everybody knows that the umpires are earnest, conscientious men, chosen because they are able and honest. Everybody knows that they can see what happens on the field far better than the man in the stands. Why, then, should they be the targets for so much criticism?

The psychologist, perhaps, could explain it easily. He would suggest, we believe, that the average man is under too much repression. At home, at the shop or office, in his automobile—everywhere, he is compelled to hold his tongue and refrain from "talking back"—whether it be to his wife, his boss, or the traffic cop.

At the ball park these repressions vanish. He can take it all out on the umpire. The accumulated soreness of a week or more can be relieved by the simple process of yelling, "Kill the big bum!"

This may be hard on the umpires, but it is probably very good for the average man's soul.

$10,000,000 FOR CHILDREN

In creating a trust fund of $10,000,000 "to be used to promote the health, welfare, happiness and development of the children of the world," Senator James Couzens has found a use for money that could not be bettered, and which it would be difficult to equal. Many of us think, perhaps, that we would do likewise if we had a chance, but the fact remains that few to whom opportunity comes, actually take advantage of it in the way the senator has. He has performed a deed that will be of incalculable benefit to an incalculable number of boys and girls. He has done a magnificent thing in a magnificent way.

The matter of the tariff is apt to give Congress some of the most puzzling problems it has to solve in years. A tariff, unfortunately, has so many complications that don't appear on the surface.

Take the matter of a tariff on imports from Canada, for instance. It is now being reported reliably in Washington that if such a tariff is raised, Canada will refuse to co-operate on the building of the St. Lawrence ship canal. And while that may be a minor matter to some sections, the great middle west has its heart set on that canal—and some of its leading advocates in Congress are men who ordinarily would be the staunchest of high tariff men.

There are half a dozen similar quirks to the situation. A good many congressional brows are apt to be sadly creased and furrowed before the subject is finally disposed of.

NEW YORK.—The male lead in a local comedy hit has become plenty up-stage as a result of success. He demanded star billing, arguing that his name should be featured over the show on the billboards. To mollify him the producer ordered a batch of posters with the star's name larger than the title of the play but had his name printed in canary while the show was printed in heavy red.

The billboards were posted all over the town and nature took its course. In a fortnight the actor's name was illegible while the name of the attraction was visible for blocks. Even so unreasoning a person as an almost-star, of course, cannot walk out on a producer merely because ink faded.

WHY FOLKS LEAVE HOME

Thousands of men and women, especially in the larger cities, disappear each year. They leave home, leaving little evidence by which to trace them. Why? Some come back. Some never do. Why? The San Francisco police department has been making an investigation of the reasons people depart from home. The findings are interesting:

"Men leave home to forget family troubles or to dodge domestic responsibilities. They often go to, with, or from a woman."

"Women leave home when they find a new love."

"Boys leave to seek adventure and romance."

"Girls leave to escape routine or discipline."

"Police records on which the deductions are based, disclosed that 239 men, women and children, who left San Francisco in 1928, are still missing. Altogether, 1,188 persons disappeared there."

"Many of those who disappeared left notes saying they were going to commit suicide. Most of them didn't."

WELL, WELL

Six high school students in Jacksonville, Fla., are sent home for wearing "sun back" dresses. In Florida, it is considered reasonably proper, and altogether beneficial, to expose as much of the body to the health-giving rays of the sun as possible. The superintendent of public instruction says he does not consider the dresses immodest. The high school dean differs with him, and tells the girls not to come back until they are dressed differently. Somebody says it is a changed world. That seems to answer every question. Perhaps that is not an answer. In some ways it just swings around and around. These sun back dresses, only a few thousand years ago, would have been thought unnecessarily enveloping. Day before yesterday skirts were long. Go back a little further and they were short. Well, well.

SPECIAL COURTS FOR CUSTOMS TERMED HELPFUL TO BUSINESS

By JUSTICE OSCAR E. BLAND
Of the United States Court of Customs and Patent Appeals
Oscar E. Bland was born in Greene County, Indiana, Nov. 21, 1877. He was educated at Valparaiso and Indiana universities. Admitted to the bar in 1901, he began his law practice at Linton, Ind. From 1907 to 1910 he was a member of the Indiana senate. He was elected to congress in 1917 from the second Indiana district and served three terms. In 1923 he was appointed justice of the United States Court of Customs Appeals, the name of which has since been changed to United States Court of Customs and Patent Appeals. His home is in Washington, D. C.

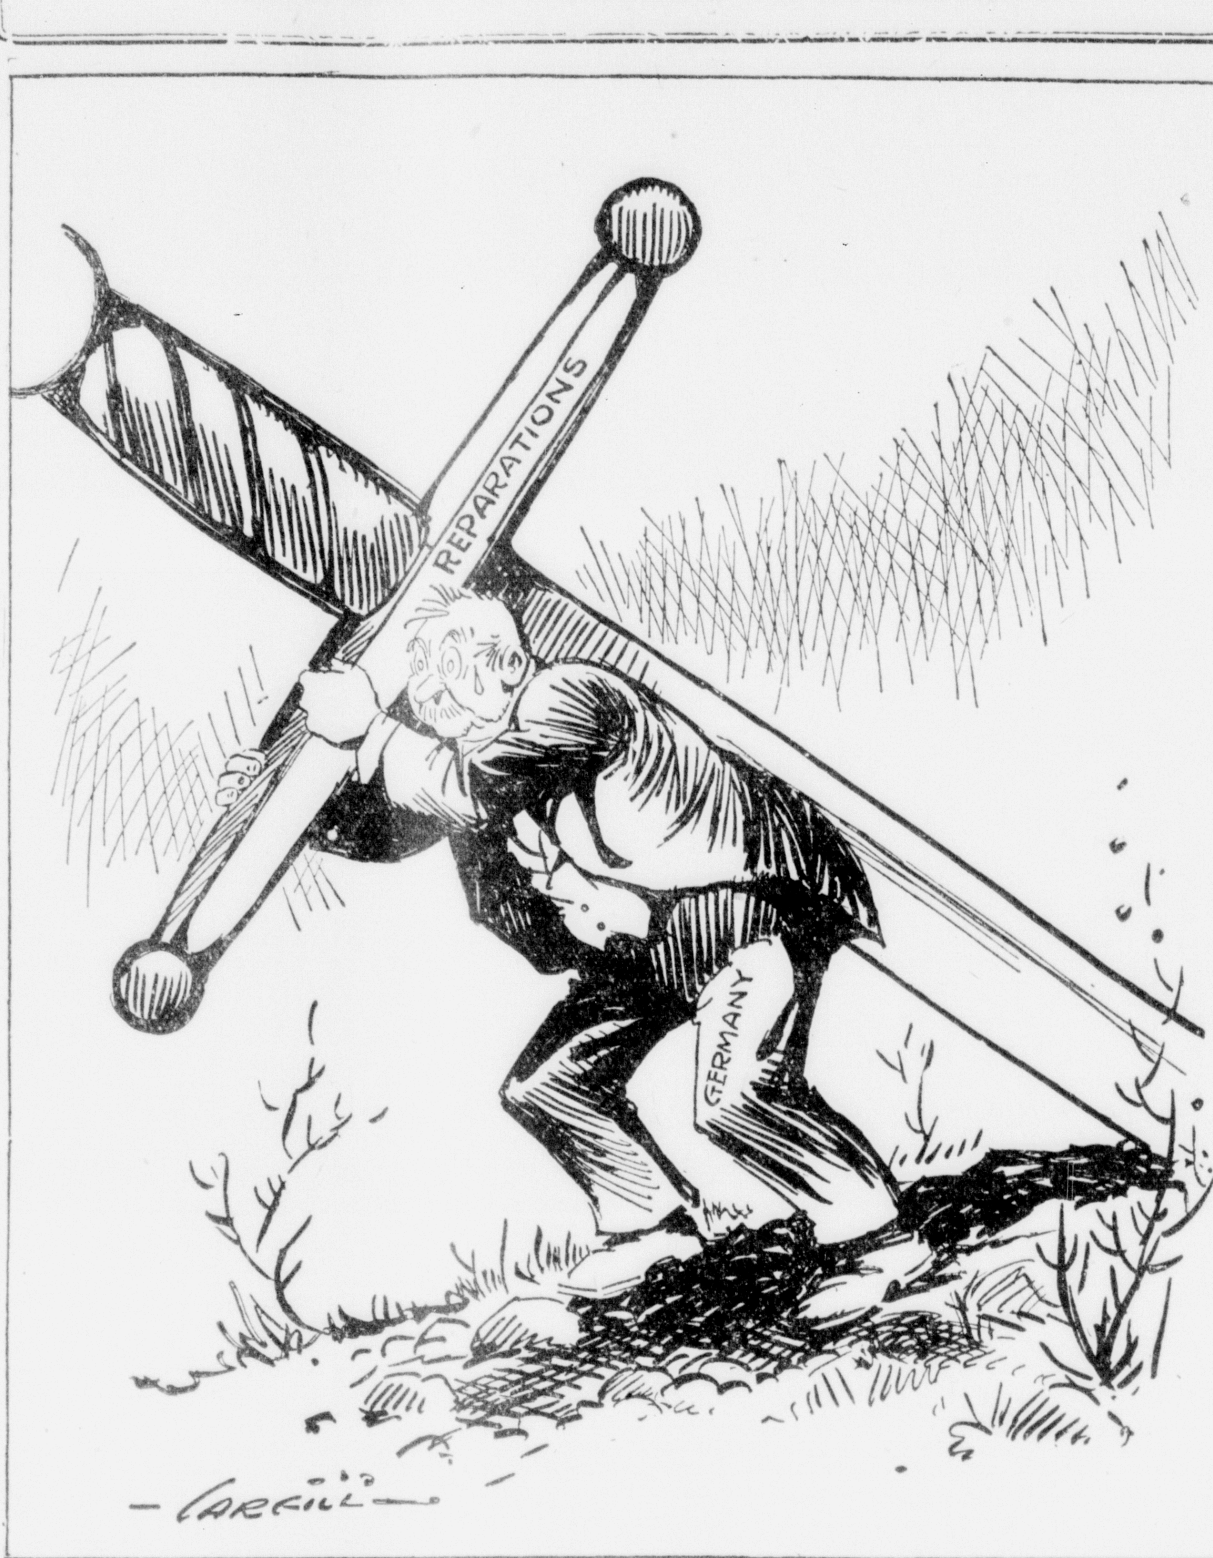

Trade has been increased, business investment given confidence, the American taxpayer protected and the collection of federal revenue facilitated by the establishment of "specialized" courts to deal with tariff matters.

I think it will be conceded that there is no comparable service in all our government's activities of which the people of the nation in general know so little as the customs service. The collection of our enormous customs revenues during the last century and a half has taxed the ingenuity of the brightest minds of the nation, and during that period there has been developed a wonderful and intricate organization—whose branches and ramifications are too numerous to recount here—and which, in my judgment, at this time challenges the admiration of the business world.

I believe I can say with pardonable pride that the hope of the farmers of the law creating the present judicial system in customs matters has been fully realized. It has been realized in speedy and less expensive adjudication of customs questions and in the uniformity of decisions, all of which has resulted in stimulating commerce, in giving confidence to concerned business investment, has more certain the revenue in the government treasury, and simplified the task of the customs lawyer.

At the last session of the congress, the name of the United States Court of Customs Appeals was changed to that of the United States Court of Customs and Patent Appeals, and to it was given jurisdiction of appeals from the United States Patent Office in patent and trade-mark matters, which jurisdiction has been with the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia for more than one-third of a century.

Another Iron Cross Bestowed By the Hohenzollerns

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Beautiful arms—beautiful feminine arms—have always made writers and artists become enthusiastic. When a famous poet of old wrote, "I sing of arms and a man," he was only one of the times when he did not mean the arms of a woman. For the same poet wrote charmingly about "white-armed Cytherea rising out of the sea," and "rosy-fingered, white-armed dawn."

Nowadays we hear less about white arms. The modern beauty more often has smooth, brown ones, slender and strong, tanned from the outdoor exercise that keeps them supple and slender. Synthetic beach-tan or browned from gypsy-like make-up that she applies artistically to create an illusion of healthy outdoorness.

Beautiful arms mean care of several sorts to keep them that way. Even the athletic maiden whose arms are slender and well-developed through exercise has to consider the problem of weather-roughened skin and freckles, deep texture-destroying sunburn.

Every one of you ought to consider the matter of beauty care for your arms. For, well-kept, they furnish a striking note of beauty in the evening or sports ensemble. And with new spring dresses emphasizing the completely sleeveless styles or the styles that show only the shoulder covered by a long shoulder line or a graceful bertha collar, and the rest of the arm left bare, they come into greater prominence than in any recent season.

You know how ugly the heavy, bulging arm of the dowager is, or the flabby, lifeless, sagging arms of the woman who has reduced too violently or too soon, without giving the skin covering an opportunity to adapt itself to smaller conditions.

I am going to tell you about some excellent arm exercises, and the outline of a simple arm treatment that many women are using regularly to keep their arms perfect, by groomed and lovely. And a little about flattering sleeves, and quite a little about the delightful new beach-tan or gypsy-like make-up which is becoming more and more popular for arms and legs as well as for the face, neck and back.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—Charles G. Dawes has at least one qualification for the post of American ambassador in London—his pipe.

Most British statesmen, like other Britons, smoke them—or cigars.

The theory is that the English climate spoils cigars. It does make tobacco mouldy. I doubt if it makes cigars any moulder than pipe tobacco or cigars, but the English think it does.

Anyway, a pipe is distinctly British.

I, particularly so, smoked in a plug hat, a coat with long tails, pearl gray pants, spats and patent leather shoes, in evening dress, or—at court—in knee breeches and a sword.

The ex-president smokes his pipe like a true Briton—regardless of accessories.

The underslung Dawes model of pipe is not British, to be sure. Still, it is a briar. England probably will not cavil over the peculiarity of its pattern.

In principle, the Chicagoan recognizes the pipe's superiority to ent Appeals, and to it was given jurisdiction of appeals from the United States Patent Office in patent and trade-mark matters, which jurisdiction has been with the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia for more than one-third of a century.

The ex-president is advertised as a wonderful man for the United States embassy in Britain because of his record of diplomatic triumphs in the past—or triumph, to be more exact. On consideration, it is hard to recall more than one.

The "Dawes plan" is a matter of history, anyway. That was the plan by which the question of German reparations was settled temporarily after a mighty critical juncture after the war. A re-adjustment of it is in progress now, but the "Dawes plan" certainly did serve to stave off a serious situation until it seems likely a satisfactory permanent agreement will soon be reached, in the calmer international atmosphere of today.

Nobody can take away from the "Dawes plan" the credit for having averted a peck of trouble at the time it was devised.

True it was Owen D. Young's plan. However, General Dawes was chairman of the commission on which, as a member, Mr. Young thought up the scheme; so it was called after the general and he got all the praise for it. If it is not skillful diplomacy, what is?

The ex-president has another qualification for the London embassy too, which must not be overlooked—for it is a vital one. To keep up the job costs a lot more than it pays. Hence our ambassador to England must be a very rich man, and General Dawes is.

Household Hints

BY MRS. MARY MORTON

Beef Stew
Green Onions, Radishes or Lettuce Salad
Lemon Pie
Spring vegetables are expensive and winter vegetables are not so fresh as they once were, but chilly days are many. This beef stew recipe uses up many of the vegetables and gives a maximum of nourishment in one dish. It will serve six.

Today's Recipes

Beef Stew—One pound lean beef cut in cubes, three cups diced potatoes, one cup diced carrots, two cups shredded cabbage, one-half cup diced celery, one small onion, chopped fine, one-half cup pearl barley. Dredge meat in flour and brown quickly in skillet in drippings or one tablespoon melted butter. Add slowly a pint of boiling water. Unless skillet is large transfer to utensil of sufficient size, being sure to scrape in all browned flour. Add vegetables and barley and enough water to allow a moderate rate of stewing for the first half hour, being careful not to let barley stick. Season with salt and pepper, use lower fire and cook one and one-half hours longer, adding just enough water from time to time to keep from burning.

Lemon Pie—Juice and grated rind of one lemon, two teaspoons cornstarch, one-half cup sugar, pinch of salt, one cup boiling water. Cook until it thickens, pour into baked crust. Beat the egg whites stiff, sweeten with a tablespoon confectioners' sugar, spread on top of pie and brown in slow oven. This recipe may be varied by using an orange and half a lemon in place of all lemon.

Place the bedroom mirror so that the light falls on the user rather than on the mirror to get the clearest reflection.

For the women with large hips it is suggested by a designer that capes, diagonal seams and similar details that fill out the figure above the waist tend to make the hips look more slender, or, at least, that the accent off the hips.

Diet and Health

BY LULU HUNT PETERS, M.D. AUTHOR OF "DIET AND HEALTH" AND "DIET FOR CHILDREN"

Sweets and Cigarettes.
"Will you please give us your opinion on the popular catchphrase: Reach for a cigarette instead of a sweet?" MRS. N.

The advertisements of the various cigarette concerns are certainly interesting, nowadays. You've noticed a war on between the candy and cigarette manufacturers? One cigarette ad says, "Reach for a cigarette instead of a sweet." This concern, of course, is in bed with the candy manufacturers. Another cigarette concern is now catering to the candy manufacturers and the lovers of sweets by saying, "Take a cigarette and a sweet."

This controversy reminds me of a story I heard recently. Perhaps you haven't heard it: The play teacher thought the children knew how to play blind man's bluff. She blindfolded one little girl and when the child did not move, she asked, "Why don't you play?"

"The child replied, 'Where is the cigarette?'"

Now here's my opinion for which you asked, Mrs. N. If you are overweight, or inclined to be, the advice, "Reach for a cigarette instead of a sweet" may be beneficial. If you are overweight, or inclined to be, cigarette smoking in moderation probably will not be so harmful to you as overeating, especially of sweets. However, smoking is seldom indulged in moderately. The habit grows and may be very harmful. And persons differ in their susceptibility to the poisonous effects of nicotine. Even in moderation, it may be harmful to you.

This makes me think that this morning there was a letter from somebody who asked me to print the cure for the tobacco habit. It consists of swabbing the mouth with a one-half per cent solution of silver nitrate, once a day, which works by making the cigarette taste too awful.

"Will you please tell me if the use of household ammonia and peroxide for removing superfluous hair is at all harmful? I use these on my legs, applying ammonia one day and peroxide the next, until the hair becomes brittle and breaks off. And is henna harmful used as a paste to tint gray hair? My health is not very good and I don't want to use anything that might be injurious."

There is no danger from the application of ammonia and peroxide, but your skin might become a little irritated.

It is not believed that vegetable hair dyes, such as henna and walnut stain, will have any harmful effects.

Why don't you have a physical check-up to find out the cause of your "not very good" health?

We have an article on Superfluous Hair and one on the hair, which takes up graying, dandruff, etc., which you may have by following column rules.

The disease you speak of is a rare one and not of general interest. You must see your physician about it.

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"Love is bling," they say, and truly we often have reason to think so. See that couple coming down the street. The woman is everything esthetically wrong. She is too short, too stout, her frock is frumpy, her coat too bright in color, her hat "a scream." But the man with her holds her arm and guides her through the crowd with a courteous and as if she was the most entertaining in the world.

He does not see her as she is, but visions the girl he married. Contrary to the beauty and love-lorn advisers she has little difficulty in "holding her husband," for she loves him and provides a comfortable home for him; she is the mother of his children, and the average, garden variety of husband, fortunately for society, does not "see" other women.

The same is true of the wife of the average man. He may have no personal charms, and surely no one but a wife—or mother—could love a man as they see him, when he is unshorn, collarless and coatless. It's rather wonderful, isn't it, this feeling that glorifies common folk and keeps the old earth steadily turning on its axis in spite of floods, earthquakes, murders and divorces.

"Dear Virginia Lee: I am in love with a man 32 years of age who has been married but whose wife is dead. He has a little girl about 13 years of age. I do not believe that married men are serious with the modern girl who allows petting, but who really loves a man. Now how could I make him know that I really care for him in the proper way? I am 21 years of age, and have many other boys to pet, but like this one in particular." GLENE.

That is just the trouble with "petting." Glene, how is a man to know whether you give your caresses to every Tom, Dick and Harry you go out with, when you allow him to "pet" right away?

Best way to win a man is not to pet. He is much more likely to take you seriously.

BROWN EYES does housework and is worried for fear she won't get married as she doesn't want to work for others all her life. She has no boy friends. Boys speak to her on the street, but she—very sensibly—won't pay any attention. She also worries what will become of her when her father and mother die if she never marries. She used to correspond with a boy, but after his last visit to her he stopped writing. But she thinks a slight misunderstanding might account for this.

Write him again, Brown Eyes, and tell him that if he doesn't want to correspond any more he had better send back your ring. That ought to bring some kind of an answer. And she's worrying. As long as you are jolly and helpful you will never lack a home of some kind, and the chances are that you will marry.

THE ONLY GOOSE FOR GANDER

"I never knew Gobbler's wives were afraid of him!" exclaimed the boy, "but now that I come to think of it, I do believe that Gobbler is 'fussing' about something most of the time."

"Of course," he is—scolding his wives and fighting with them every chance he gets! Now, there is nothing like that in our family. Wife and I are the most devoted couple ever saw." Gander looked fondly over at Mrs. Goose.

"I took long enough to make up my mind the spring I was a gay young Gander, but as soon as I set my eyes upon Gracie, I knew she was the Goose for me."

My, but she was a beautiful bird those days! Her eyes were as bright as jewels, her feathers as blonde as silver, and she was as smart as a jet black Crow. I wasn't the only Gander in love with Gracie, and I had an awful time trying to win her favor. One morning, though, just as 'sun' was rising, she whispered 'Yes.' You can be sure we lost no time in setting out on our wedding journey, for she was just as anxious as I was to start housekeeping, and it would never do to build a house anywhere but in the nesting meadows of the North.

"What a honeymoon we had! She and I did not go alone, you know, but set sail with a lot of other lovers like ourselves, and a jolly company we were! Fun and feasting were ours all along the route. Many a good time have we had, and I had sure that day, but none quite so merry and care-free!"

"Gander, oh, Gander!" a call from Mrs. Wild Goose interrupted her husband in his story. "I'd like to ask your advice. Will you swim over for a moment?"

"Coming, dearie, coming right along," replied Wild Gander at once, and he waited just long enough to say to Peter, "And you come too," before he started.

The boy was not at all sure that Mrs. Goose wanted to meet him, but she looked like such a pleasant sort of bird he was certain she would never tell him so, even if she didn't.

Peter had not found out quite all he wished to know about the Wild Goose family, either—the Gossings would make jolly companions, he felt sure, and he'd like to have a chance to talk to them, so he decided to accept Gander's invitation. No sooner thought than done!

AN INTERESTING WORLD

Outstanding scientific and business leaders announce that by the year 5000, folks are going to be living in a wonderfully changed world. There will be an international government—a democracy—there will be no war and little disease. Birth control will provide a better race. Business will turn thumbs down on war because it is so costly. All of these things are possible. They are still in the conversational stage. It is important, though, that we think about them and pass on our ideas, if any, to others. Things must exist in fact before they can exist in fact.

I think it will be conceded that there is no comparable service in all our government's activities in which the people of the nation in general know so little as the customs service. The collection of our enormous customs revenues during the last century and a half has taxed the ingenuity of the brightest minds of the nation, and during that period there has been developed a wonderful and intricate organization—whose branches and ramifications are too numerous to recount here—and which, in my judgment, at this time challenges the admiration of the business world.

I believe I can say with pardonable pride that the hope of the farmers of the law creating the present judicial system in customs matters has been fully realized. It has been realized in speedy and less expensive adjudication of customs questions and in the uniformity of decisions, all of which has resulted in stimulating commerce, in giving confidence to concerned business investment, has relieved the taxpayer, made more certain the revenue in the government treasury, and simplified the task of the customs lawyer.

At the last session of the congress, the name of the United States Court of Customs Appeals was changed to that of the United States Court of Customs and Pat-

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Beautiful arms — beautiful feminine arms — have always made writers and artists become enthusiastic. When a famous poet of old wrote, "I sing of arms and a man," it was only one of the times when he did not mean the arms of a woman. For the same poet wrote charmingly about "white-armed Cytherea rising out of the sea," and "rosy-fingered, white-armed dawn."

Nowadays we hear less about white arms. The modern beauty more often has smooth, brown ones, slender and strong, tanned from the outdoor exercise that keeps them supple and slender. Synthetic beach-tan or browned from gypsy-like make-up that she applies artistically to create an illusion of healthy outdoorness.

Beautiful arms mean care of several sorts to keep them that way. Even the athletic maiden whose arms are slender and well-developed through exercise has to consider the problem of weather-roughened skin and elbows, superfluous hair and freckles, deep texture-destroying sunburn.

Every one of you ought to consider the matter of beauty care for your arms. For, well-kept, they furnish a striking note of beauty in the evening or sports ensemble. And with new spring dresses emphasizing the completely sleeveless styles or the styles that show only the shoulder covered by a long shoulder line or a graceful bertha collar, and the rest of the arm left bare, they come into greater prominence than in any recent season.

You know how ugly the heavy, bulging arm of the dowager is, or the flabby, lifeless, sagging arms of the woman who has reduced too violently or too soon, without giving the skin covering an opportunity to adapt itself to smaller conditions. Usually her problem is not one of nourishment so much as it is of poor circulation. If she were to exercise and follow a proper diet her troubles would probably clear up. Even massage followed regularly will help to set up a health flow of blood circulation which is an essential foundation of beauty of skin and contour.

It's easy to have good looking arms—easier than almost anything else. For the beauty care you need to give them is simple. The exercise which develop or reduce them are not difficult — you are using small daily ways that they respond to your arms so constantly in many quickly to the demands exercising puts on them. And one or two daily treatments taken in a few minutes while dressing in the morning, or at the time of your nightly bath, plus a few seconds each night when retiring to rub nourishing cream on your elbows, will prove enough to keep the skin smooth, and unblemished, unless it is in a very sluggish condition indeed.

I am going to tell you about some excellent arm exercises, and the outline of a simple arm treatment that many women are using regularly to keep their arms perfect, groomed and lovely. And a little about flattering sleeves; and quite a little about the delightful new beach-tan or gypsy-like make-up which is becoming more and more popular for arms; and legs as well as for the face, neck and back.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON. — Charles G. Dawes has at least one qualification for the post of American ambassador in London—his pipe.

Most British statesmen, like other Britons, smoke them—or cigars.

The theory is that the English climate spoils cigars. It does make tobacco mouldy. I doubt if it makes cigars any mouldier than pipe tobacco or cigars, but the English think it does.

Anyway, a pipe is distinctly British.

I, particularly so, smoked in a plug hat, a coat with long tails, pearl gray pants, spats and patent leather shoes, in evening dress, or—at court—in knee breeches and a sword.

The ex-vice president smoked his pipe like a true Briton—regardless of accessories.

The underslung Dawes model of pipe is not British, to be sure. Still, it is a briar. England probably will not cavil over the peculiarity of its pattern.

In principle, the Chicagoan recognizes the pipe's superiority to Appeals, and to it was given jurisdiction of appeals from the United States Patent Office in patent and trade-mark matters, which jurisdiction has been with the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia for more than one-third of a century.

all other forms of smokes.

This is bound to make the English like him, from the jump.

They may not say so to a visiting American, but they secretly regard cigar-smoking as a species of "swank"—English for "bluff." Cigar-smoking they do not think about, one way or the other. They really welcome a pipe.

General Dawes' physiognomy is suggestive of a cat's.

Perhaps the suggestion is mostly in the general's chin. Without being a weak or receding chin—a cat's chin is not that—nevertheless it is rather light.

The mouth shuts with a kind of tight-lipped suggestion which is cat-like, too.

Even the general's figure has a hint of the feline. He is a taller man than his pictures make him look—not much, if any, under six feet.

He is slender and has a certain, long-limbed, sliding-muscle air of easy grace.

A cat is a refined animal—and yet it can scratch.

Ditto General Dawes. He can play the violin, discuss art and books in the most delightful way, appear as thoroughly domesticated and harmless as if he had never had a destructive instinct in his life—and then, all at once—z-z-z-z—off comes a long ribbon of somebody's outfit, and the place takes a dicens of a while to heal.

The ex-vice president is advertised as a wonderful man for the United States embassy in Britain because of his record of diplomatic triumphs in the past—or triumph, to be more exact. On consideration, it is hard to recall more than one.

The "Dawes plan" is a matter of history, anyway.

That was the plan by which the question of German reparations was settled temporarily after the war. A re-adjustment of it is in progress now, but the "Dawes plan" certainly did serve to stave off a serious situation until it seems likely a satisfactory permanent agreement will soon be reached, in the calmer international atmosphere of today.

Nobody can take away from the "Dawes plan" the credit for having averted a peck of trouble at the time it was devised.

True it was Owen D. Young's plan.

However, General Dawes was chairman of the commission on which, as a member, Mr. Young thought up the scheme so it was called after the general and he got all the praise for it. If that is not skillful diplomacy, what is?

The ex-vice president has another qualification for the London embassy too, which must not be overlooked for it is a vital one. To keep up the job costs a lot more than it pays. Hence our ambassador to England must be a very rich man, and General Dawes is.

Beef Stew
Green Onions, Radishes or Lettuce
Salad

Lemon Pie
Spring vegetables are expensive and winter vegetables are not so much as they once were, but chilly days are many. This beef stew recipe uses up many of the vegetables and gives a maximum of nourishment in one dish. It will serve six.

Today's Recipes
Beef Stew—One pound lean beef cut in cubes, three cups diced potatoes, one cup diced carrots, two cups shredded cabbage, one-half cup diced celery, one small onion, chopped fine, one-half cup pearl barley, dredge meat in flour and brown quickly in skillet in drippings or one tablespoon melted butter. Add slowly a pint of boiling water. Unleavened skillet is large transfer to utensil of sufficient size, being sure to scrape in all browned flour. Add vegetables and barley and enough water to allow a moderate rate of stewing for the first half hour, being careful not to let barley stick. Season with salt and pepper, use lower fire and cook one and one-half hours longer, adding just enough water from time to time to keep from burning.

Lemon Pie—Juice and grated rind of one lemon, two teaspoons cornstarch, one-half cup sugar, pinch of salt, one cup boiling water. Cook until it thickens, pour into baked crust. Beat the egg whites stiff, sweeten with a tablespoon confectioners' sugar, spread on top of pie and brown in slow oven. This recipe may be varied by using an orange and half a lemon in place of all lemon.

Place the bedroom mirror so that the light falls on the user rather than on the mirror to get the clearest reflection.

For the women with large hips it is suggested by a designer that capes, diagonal seams and similar details that fill out the figure above the waist tend to make the hips look more slender, or, at least, take the accent off the hips.

Diet and Health

BY LULU HUNT PETERS, M.D. AUTHOR OF "DIET AND HEALTH" AND "DIET FOR CHILDREN"

Sweets and Cigarettes.

"Will you please give us your opinion on the popular catchphrase: Reach for a cigarette instead of a sweet?" MRS. N.

The advertisements of the various cigarette concerns are certainly interesting, nowadays. You've noticed a war on between the candy and cigarette manufacturers? One cigarette ad says, "Reach for a cigarette instead of a sweet." This concern, of course, is in bad with the candy manufacturers. Another cigarette concern is now catering to the candy manufacturers and the lovers of sweets by saying, "Take a cigarette and a sweet."

This controversy reminds me of a story I heard recently. Perhaps you haven't heard it: The play teacher thought the children knew how to play blind man's bluff. She blindfolded one little girl and when the child did not move, she asked, "Why don't you play?"

"The child replied, 'Where is the cigarette?'"

Now here's my opinion for which you asked, Mrs. N. If you are overweight, or inclined to be, the advice, "Reach for a cigarette instead of a sweet" may be beneficial. If you are overweight, or inclined to be, cigarette smoking in moderation probably will not be so harmful to you as overeating, especially of sweets. However, smoking is sold indulged in moderately. The habit grows and may be very harmful. And persons differ in their susceptibility to the poisonous effects of nicotine. Even in moderation, it may be harmful to you.

This makes me think that this morning there was a letter from somebody who asked me to print the cure for the tobacco habit. It consists of swabbing the mouth with a one-half per cent solution of silver nitrate, once a day, which works by making the cigarette taste too awful.

"Will you please tell me if the use of household ammonia and peroxide for removing superfluous hair is at all harmful? I use these on my legs, applying ammonia one day and peroxide the next, until the hair becomes brittle and breaks off. And is henna harmful used as a paste to tint gray hair? My health is not very good and I don't want to use anything that might be injurious."

There is no danger from the application of ammonia and peroxide, but your skin might become a little irritated. It is not believed that vegetable hair dyes, such as henna and walnut stain, will have any harmful effects. Why don't you have a physical check-up to find out the cause of your not very good health? We have an article on Superfluous Hair and one on the hair, which takes up graying, dandruff, etc., which you may have by following column rules.

Miss B., Corona—Your last letter did not contain your full address nor a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Probably that is what happened when you sent for the reducing pamphlet before. Sorry we can't send it to you now, either. I hope that perhaps you have realized your omission and have tried again.

The disease you speak of is a rare one and not of general interest. You must see your physician about it.

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"Love is bling," they say, and truly we often have reason to think so. See that couple coming down the street. The woman is everything esthetically wrong. She is too short, too stout, her frock is frumpy, her coat too bright in color, her hat "a scream." But the man with her holds her arm and guides her footsteps and listens to her conversation as if she was the most entertaining in the world.

He does not see her as she is, but visions the girl he married, contrast to the beauty and loveliness she has little difficulty in "holding her husband," for she loves him and provides a comfortable home for him; she is the mother of his children, and the average, garden variety of husband, fortunately for society, does not "see" other women.

The same is true of the wife of the average man. He may have no personal charms, and surely no one but a wife—or mother—could love a man as they see him, when he is unshorn, collarless and coatless. It's rather wonderful, isn't it, this feeling that glorifies common folk and keeps the old earth steadily turning on its axis in spite of floods, earthquakes, murders and divorces.

"Dear Virginia Lee: Won't you please help me? I am 18 and going with a boy 22. I love him with all my heart, but I don't think he cares for me. He writes to a girl away from here. He showed me a few of her letters. She thanked him for a ring. Do you think he wanted to make me jealous or just let me know he sent her the ring? When I am riding with him he flirts with every girl he sees. It surely hurts me. I cry every night. I've been going with him a year. I don't go with anybody else. He goes with other girls. Tell me how I can make him love me, because I want him so much."

"JUST FRENCHIE." Your best bet is to dry those tears, Frenchie, put on your prettiest smile and do a bit of flirting on your own account. You're too easy and the young man is taking advantage of it. He may have shown you that letter just to tease you, or he may be engaged to the other girl and took that way of giving you a hint. In either case, at least act as if you didn't care overly much and see what happens.

"Dear Virginia Lee: My boy friend is very shy. Could you please tell me what to do?"

Write him again, Brown Eyes, and tell him that if he doesn't want to correspond with you, that ought to bring some kind of an answer. And stop worrying. As long as you are jolly and helpful you will never lack a home of some kind, and the chances are that you will marry.

ONE-MINUTE PULPIT

If I ascend up into heaven, thou art there; if I make my bed in hell, behold, thou art there. If I take the wings of the morning, and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea; Even thence shall thy hand lead me, and thy right hand shall hold me.—Psalm cxxxix, 8-10.

Peter's Adventures

THE ONLY GOOSE FOR GANDER

"I never knew Gander's wives were afraid of him!" exclaimed the boy, "but now that I come to think of it, I do believe that Gander is 'fussing' about something most of the time."

"Of course, he is—scolding his wives and fighting with them every chance he gets! Now, there is nothing like that in our family. Wife and I are the most devoted couple you ever saw." Gander looked fondly over at Mrs. Goose.

"I took long enough to make up my mind the spring I was a gay young Gander, but as soon as I set my eyes upon Grace, I knew she was the Goose for me."

"My, but she was a beautiful bird in those days! Her eyes were as bright as jewels, her feathers as white as silver, and she was as smart as a jet black Crow. I wasn't the only Gander in love with Grace, and I had an awful time trying to win her favor. One morning, though, just as the sun was rising, she whispered 'Yes! You can be sure we lost no time in setting out on our wedding tour.'"

"I was to start housekeeping, and it would never do to build a house anywhere but in the nesting meadows of the North."

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED
by Phil

Times have changed and so have heavy-weight fighters.

For instance, the Muldoon-Tunney trophy which stands in bronze and marble splendor in Madison Square Garden, no longer sits with ambition the fighters eligible to add their names to its roll of honor.

Although it seems that there would be something rather inspiring about the list of heavyweights on the bronze plaques, going back to 1882, the so-called leading fighters of today lie around in easy chairs with their ears stuffed with cotton.

The list of champions goes back to 1882 when John L. Sullivan first was crowned king of all the heavyweights.

On one plaque, the list reads:
John L. Sullivan (1882-1892)
James J. Corbett (1892-1897)
Robert L. Fitzsimmons (1897-1899)
James J. Jeffries (1899-1906)
Tommy Burns (1906-1908)
Jack Johnson (1908-1915)
Jess Willard (1915-1919)

On the other plaque there are two names:

Jack Dempsey (1919-1926)
Gene Tunney (1926-1928)

Now the question arises as to who the next fighter will be to have his name inscribed on this trophy. That is a question not so easily answered. There was a time when the mere opportunity to add one's name to that imposing list would have incited wild ambitions in the hearts of every young fighter in the business. Throughout the rings of the land there would have been more bloodshed and gore in the gutters.

Looking over the list of present available fighters, there is not a single man ready to fight for the honor. Not only that but there are only two or three fit to battle for the money they claim must go with it. The list of eligibles narrows down to Jack Sharkey, Paulino Uzcudun and Max Schmelling and one of these three hardy scrappers may find his name on the Muldoon-Tunney trophy before the year has passed into history.

It does seem too bad but it is doubtful whether Jack Dempsey could be persuaded to essay a comeback role and have another try, so there seems to be nothing that can be done about it.

It is no secret that heavyweight champions are not made overnight. Neither are heavyweight championship fights for that matter.

They still tell of the time when Jack Dempsey posed for the photographers in the shipyards during the war and gave himself away because his shiny patent leather pumps showed beneath the fringes of his he-man overalls. He has never lived that one down.

But it seems that Barnum was right for just the other day there came into the heart of a press agent for one Izzy Grove, promising New York fighter a desire for bigger and better publicity for his boy.

So Izzy was propped up with a sledge-hammer and overalls on the steel beam of a building under construction, apparently hard at work. And, believe it or not, when the pictures came out in the papers, beneath the bell-bottomed overalls peeped a pair of patent leather shoes as shiny and pointed as those Dempsey wore.

BLACK BASS SEASON

CLOSED TO ANGLERS

Fishermen are advised by Ernest L. Harner, county game warden, that the taking of black bass is strictly prohibited during the period from April 14 to June 15, both dates inclusive.

Seining for minnows is also forbidden from May 1 to June 14, both dates inclusive, except in streams in which the average width of water at the time seined does not exceed twelve feet for a distance of fifty yards above and below the point seined.

Warden Harner also warns that no person at any time shall have in his possession either alive or otherwise, more than 100 minnows, excepting individuals, firms or corporations engaged in buying, selling or dealing in bait, who must have a minnow dealer's permit.

COUNTY FEELS WIND

STORM ON THURSDAY

Damage caused by a windstorm of varying intensity but which never seemed to reach remarkable velocity was almost negligible in Greene County Thursday afternoon.

The most serious report came from Bowersville, where the wind blew over a chicken house on a farm owned by Perst Pugsley, a half-mile from the village on the Jamestown Pike.

No reports of poles being down were received by officials of the Ohio Bell Telephone Co.

YDE MAKING GOOD

IN AMERICAN LOOP

Yesterday's hero—Emil Yde, former Pittsburgh south paw brought back from the minor leagues by the Detroit Tigers, who pitched his new team to a 5 to 0 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

The Chicago White Sox went into undisputed possession of the American League cellar by losing their opening home game to the St. Louis Browns, 3 to 2. The victory elevated the Browns into a tie for first place with the Athletics.

Sam Gray held the White Sox to eight hits and won his third game of the season.

Lyons was rapped for four hits in the opening inning which resulted in three runs. From then until the eighth inning the Browns did not reach first base. Bud Clancy, White Sox first baseman, hit a homer in the first inning.

Rain and wet grounds prevented all National Leaguers from playing.

WELLS SIGNS WITH GREENFIELD TEAM

The Reserves baseball team will have to struggle along for the remainder of the current season without the services of Dick Wells, Bowersville, left-handed pitcher, who has joined Greenfield of the K. I. O. League. Greenfield made him a more attractive offer.

This leaves Bolton, Payton and Franks available to pitch for the Reserves in the delayed season's opener with the Springfield Bartlett Clothiers Sunday afternoon at Washington Park, starting at 2:30 o'clock.

Reserves will probably play Phillipsburg the following Sunday and a game has been booked with the Dayton Independents, a colored nine, for Sunday, May 12. This Dayton team is composed of the most part of players who were formerly members of the Dayton Marcos.

CITY WILL ACCEPT TRAFFIC DEVICES

Gift to the city of three automatic flash signals of latest design by the Greene County Auto Club, will be accepted, City Commission indicated Thursday night. The offer was given favorable consideration.

The signals, under terms of the gift, would be installed to regulate traffic at Detroit and Market Sts., Detroit and Second Sts., and Columbus and Main Sts., three of the busiest street intersections in the city.

They will be given outright to the city, Secretary Oliver Belden said, providing the city installs and maintains them.

Devices of the type offered the city may be installed in the ground or overhead, and are said to be an improvement over the automatic signal installed at Main and Detroit Sts. They include green, amber and red lights.

Baseball Puzzlers

By CHARLEY BARRETT

Big League Scout Writing for Central Press and The Gazette

The practice of a batter demanding an inspection of a ball frequently becomes a nuisance because of the delay. The fans become tired of watching some dinky hitter carefully inspect the horsehide and then proceed to strike out.

But there are times when usual situations arise from the curiosity of a batter in this respect.

I remember one time last summer when a club won a game because of the batter asking for a peep at the ball.

It was during one of those pitching battles when every effort was being made to upset the rival hurler. One of the teams finally got a base runner on second with two out when a single would likely win the game.

The baserunner was taking a big lead off the bag, watching for any opening to sneak down to third. The batter missed two swings and, angered, asked the umpire to examine the ball.

The catcher was just throwing to the pitcher when the umpire called for the ball. He foolishly tried to check his throw and instead the ball slipped out of his fingers

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED
by Phil

Times have changed and so have heavy-weight fighters.

For instance, the Muldoon-Turney trophy which stands in bronze and marble splendor in Madison Square Garden, no longer stirs with ambition the fighters eligible to add their names to its roll of honor.

Although it seems that there would be something rather inspiring about the list of heavyweights on the bronze plaques, going back to 1882, the so-called leading fighters of today lie around in easy chairs with their ears stuffed with cotton.

The list of champions goes back to 1882 when John L. Sullivan first was crowned king of all the heavyweights.

On one plaque, the list reads: John L. Sullivan (1882-1892) James J. Corbett (1892-1897) Robert L. Fitzsimmons (1897-1899) James J. Jeffries (1899-1906) Tommy Burns (1906-1908) Jack Johnson (1908-1915) Jess Willard (1915-1919)

On the other plaque there are two names: Jack Dempsey (1919-1926) Gene Tunney (1926-1928)

Now the question arises as to who the next fighter will be to have his name inscribed on this trophy. That is a question not so easily answered. There was a time when the mere opportunity to add one's name to that imposing list would have instilled wild ambitions in the hearts of every young fighter in the business. Throughout the rings of the land there would have been more bloodshed and gore in the gutters.

Looking over the list of present available fighters, there is not a single man ready to fight for the honor. Not only that but there are only two or three fit to battle for the money they claim must go with it. The list of eligibles narrows down to Jack Sharkey, Paulino Uzcudun and Max Schmeling and one of these three hardy scrappers may find his name on the Muldoon-Turney trophy before the year has passed into history.

It does seem too bad but it is doubtful whether Jack Dempsey could be persuaded to essay a comeback role and have another try, so there seems to be nothing that can be done about it.

It is no secret that heavyweight champions are not made overnight. Neither are heavyweight championship fights for that matter.

They still tell of the time when Jack Dempsey posed for the photographers in the shipyards during the war and gave himself away because his shiny patent leather pumps showed beneath the fringes of his he-man overalls. He has never lived that one down.

But it seems that Barnum was right for just the other day there came into the heart of a press agent for one Izzy Grove, promising New York fighter, a desire for bigger and better publicity for his boy.

So Izzy was propped up with a sledgehammer and overalls on the steel beam of a building under construction, apparently hard at work. And, believe it or not, when the pictures came out in the papers, beneath the bell-bottomed overalls peeped a pair of patent leather shoes as shiny and pointed as those Dempsey wore.

BLACK BASS SEASON CLOSED TO ANGLERS

Fishermen are advised by Ernest L. Harner, county game warden, that the taking of black bass is strictly prohibited during the period from April 14 to June 15, both dates inclusive.

Sending for minnows is also forbidden from May 1 to June 14, both dates inclusive, except in streams in which the average width of water at the time seined does not exceed twelve feet for a distance of fifty yards above and below the point seined.

Warden Harner also warns that no person at any time shall have in his possession either alive or otherwise, more than 100 minnows, excepting individuals, firms or corporations engaged in buying, selling or dealing in bait, who must have a minnow dealer's permit.

COUNTY FEELS WIND STORM ON THURSDAY

Damage caused by a windstorm of varying intensity but which never seemed to reach remarkable velocity was almost negligible in Greene County Thursday afternoon.

The most serious report came from Bowersville, where the wind blew over a chicken house on a farm owned by Persi Puzgley, a half-mile from the village on the Jamestown Pike.

No reports of poles being down were received by officials of the Ohio Bell Telephone Co.

YDE MAKING GOOD IN AMERICAN LOOP

Yesterday's hero—Emil Yde, former Pittsburgh southpaw brought back from the minor leagues by the Detroit Tigers, who pitched his new team to a 5 to 9 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

The Chicago White Sox went into undisputed possession of the American League cellar by losing their opening home game to the St. Louis Browns, 3 to 2. The victory elevated the Browns into a tie for first place with the Athletics.

Sam Gray held the White Sox to eight hits and won his third game of the season. Lyons was rapped for four hits in the opening inning which resulted in three runs. From then until the eighth inning the Browns did not reach first base. Bud Clancy, White Sox first baseman, hit a homer in the first inning.

Rain and wet grounds prevented all National Leaguers from playing.

WELLS SIGNS WITH GREENFIELD TEAM

The Reserves baseball team will have to struggle along for the remainder of the current season without the services of Dick Wells, Bowersville, left-handed pitcher, who has joined Greenfield of the K. I. O. League. Greenfield made him a more attractive offer.

This leaves Bolton, Payton and Franks available to pitch for the Reserves in the delayed season's opener with the Springfield Bartlett Clothiers Sunday afternoon at Washington Park, starting at 2:30 o'clock.

Reserves will probably play Phillipsburg the following Sunday and a game has been booked with the Dayton Independents, a colored nine, for Sunday, May 12. This Dayton team is composed for the most part of players who were formerly members of the Dayton Marcos.

CITY WILL ACCEPT TRAFFIC DEVICES

Gift to the city of three automatic flash signals of latest design by the Greene County Auto Club, will be accepted, City Commission indicated Thursday night. The offer was given favorable consideration.

The signals, under terms of the gift, would be installed to regulate traffic at Detroit and Market Sts., Detroit and Second Sts., and Columbus and Main Sts., three of the busiest street intersections in the city.

They will be given outright to the city, Secretary Oliver Belden said, providing the city installs and maintains them.

Devices of the type offered the city may be installed in the ground or overhead, and are said to be an improvement over the automatic signal installed at Main and Detroit Sts. They include green, amber and red lights.

APPELLATE JUDGES REVERSE JUDGMENT IN DAMAGE ACTION

Reversing the judgment of the lower court, the Greene County Court of Appeals, in a ruling announced Wednesday, remanded the $15,000 personal injury suit of Jean Soddors, two years and eight months of age, against G. Gene Gordon, for a new trial in Common Pleas Court.

Ottis Soddors, filing the suit on behalf of the child in the capacity of her next friend, sought to recover damages for personal injuries claimed to have been inflicted upon her by Gordon through negligent operation of his automobile.

Ten different grounds of alleged negligence upon the part of the defendant which the plaintiff claims directly and proximately caused the injuries described in detail in her petition, were listed in the document.

The appellate court ordered a second trial of the case for the reason that in its opinion the trial court erred in holding that the parties to the action by their conduct had waived a jury and that the case had been submitted to the court for determination.

The controversy in the case arose over the rulings of the trial court at the conclusion of all the evidence. At the close of testimony of the plaintiff the defendant filed a motion for a directed verdict and it was overruled.

Then the plaintiff moved the court to instruct a verdict for the plaintiff and to direct the jury that its only function was to assess the amount of damages to be awarded.

The trial court as a result held that the motions by both sides for a directed verdict submitted the issues in the case to the court for determination and discharged the jury from further consideration of the case. Subsequently the court decided the case in favor of the defendant, dismissing the damage suit.

Afterward, the plaintiff made application to the court for permission to withdraw her former motion for a directed verdict in the plaintiff's favor, requesting the court to instruct the jury that the only thing for it to consider was the question of damages. This permission was denied and the plaintiff appealed to the appellate court.

The higher court held that these motions for a directed verdict were not before the court at the same time and the case was therefore not submitted to the court for its determination by the conduct of counsel. The trial court should also have permitted the plaintiff to withdraw her motion for a directed verdict and for the assessment of damages by the jury. The appeals court ruled.

F. Scott Zimmerman, Cleveland, O., was attorney for the plaintiff. Marshall and Marshall were attorneys for the defendant.

Heart Beats Double

This exclusive photo shows Dorothy Collins whom slain Harry Adams is said to have considered himself married according to the Buddhist faith. Dorothy wrote him that her heart beat double thinking of her "husband in Buddha." Her letters form part of the evidence which the defense says drove Mrs. Olive Adams to chloroform her husband, the Hartford meteorologist.

FOREST PARK ADDS HYENA TO ITS ZOO

A laughing hyena is the latest addition to the collection of wild animals and birds at Forest Park, Dayton amusement park and zoo, located in the city.

In addition to the hyena, two wild boars from Central Europe and an African lioness have been added to the fast-growing collection of animals at the park and the new animals will be on exhibition for the first time Sunday.

Amusement devices, old favorites and new inventions, are provided along the park midway and there is a large picnic ground for use of which no charge is made. Dancing in the rooftop dais with Paul Cornelius and his orchestra of eleven artists furnishing the music.

APPELLATE JUDGES REVERSE JUDGMENT IN DAMAGE ACTION

Reversing the judgment of the lower court, the Greene County Court of Appeals, in a ruling announced Wednesday, remanded the $15,000 personal injury suit of Jean Sadders, two years and eight months of age, against G. Gene Gordon, for a new trial in Common Pleas Court.

Ottis Sadders, filing the suit on behalf of the child in the capacity of her next friend, sought to recover damages for personal injuries claimed to have been inflicted upon her by Gordon through negligent operation of his automobile.

Ten different grounds of alleged negligence upon the part of the defendant which the plaintiff claims directly and proximately caused the injuries described in detail in her petition, were listed in the document.

The appellate court ordered a second trial of the case for the reason that in its opinion the trial court erred in holding that the parties to the action by their conduct had waived a jury and that the case had been submitted to the court for determination.

The controversy in the case arose over the rulings of the trial court at the conclusion of all the evidence. At the close of testimony of the plaintiff the defendant filed a motion for a directed verdict and it was overruled.

Then the plaintiff moved the court to instruct a verdict for the plaintiff and to direct the jury that its only function was to assess the amount of damages to be awarded.

The trial court as a result held that the motions by both sides for a directed verdict submitted the issues in the case to the court for determination and discharged the jury from further consideration of the case. Subsequently the court decided the case in favor of the defendant, dismissing the damage suit.

Afterward, the plaintiff made application to the court for permission to withdraw her former motion for a directed verdict in the plaintiff's favor, requesting the court to instruct the jury that the only thing for it to consider was the question of damages. This permission was denied and the plaintiff appealed to the appellate court.

The higher court held that these motions for a directed verdict were not before the court at the same time and the case was therefore not submitted to the court for its determination by the conduct of counsel. The trial court should also have permitted the plaintiff to withdraw her motion for a directed verdict and for the assessment of damages by the jury, the appeals court ruled.

F. Scott Zimmerman, Cleveland, O., was attorney for the plaintiff. Marshall and Marshall were attorneys for the defendant.

Heart Beats Double

This exclusive photo shows Dorothy Collins whom slain Harry Adams is said to have considered himself married according to the Buddhist faith. Dorothy wrote him that her heart beat double thinking of her "husband in Buddha." Her letters form part of the evidence which the defense says drove Mrs. Olive Adams to chloroform her husband, the Hartford meteorologist.

FOREST PARK ADDS HYENA TO ITS ZOO

A laughing hyena is the latest addition to the collection of wild animals and birds at Forest Park, Dayton amusement park and zoological garden, now open to the public.

In addition to the hyena, two wild boars from Central Europe and an African lioness have been added to the fast-growing collection of animals at the park and the new animals will be on exhibition for the first time Sunday.

Amusement devices, old favorites and new inventions, are provided along the park midway and there is a large picnic ground for use of which, no charge is made. Dancing in the rooftop daisies is held nightly except Sunday with Paul Cornelius and his orchestra of eleven artists furnishing the music.

Home Education

"Children obey your parents" is a much overworked command. In the past, parental authority was imposed on the child, who was given no choice in the matter. "Because I said you should" was sufficient reason for action.
Some say, "Children are so independent now, they do as they please, they care little for parents' feelings, and less yet for their authority."
There are children so reared as to obey something not external but something within—call it conscience, a principle, an ideal which was put there by the teachings of the other members of the family. These children are so well trained to obey their ideal that they are kept from going wrong when home and home restraints are gone.
The new and more successful program is to instill in the children lofty ideals and then insist on the old time obedience not to the parents' program but to the program in which the child's ideal will be best realized.—D. Carl Yoder.

The general council of the Presbyterian Church in the United States voted to submit to the general assembly meeting in St. Paul next month an overture to amend the form of government so as to give women entire equality with men, giving them a right to sit in the courts of the church, have memberships in the synods and general assembly, become elders and clergy.

Dr. Athearn will do research work in Europe, Asia and Africa until that date in his capacity as chairman of the World Federation of Educational Associations.

The American University, Washington, D. C., has announced a seminar to Palestine for the coming summer under the leadership of Dr. Arthur J. Jackson director of the department of religion at the university. Theological students, ministers and interested laymen will have an opportunity to study the sermon on the Mount and the temptation experience on their traditional scenes, at Corinth the history of Paul's life there, and at Athens Paul's Mars Hill sermon will be studied on Mars Hill.

The Better Way

Sabbath and the Senate

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, minority leader and candidate for the vice-presidency in the recent election, did a commendable service in causing the senate to vote against any ordinary legislative business on the Sabbath. Senator Robinson said in part: "Mr. President, by custom universal in every part of the United States, the Sabbath day has been set apart as a day of rest and worship. Only under conditions of emergency or of imperative necessity does the imperative spirit of this nation prompt or justify the action of its citizens when they engage in toil on that day. . . . It is an unwholesome practice for the congress of the United States to engage in the transaction of business on the Sabbath except under such conditions as make it imperative to do so. . . . I believe that proposition will appeal to all senators who have respect for the moral law which governs throughout this Republic."

Creamed Comments On S.S. Lesson

Josiah, the good son of a corrupt father, came to the throne of Judah at the age of eight and reigned thirty-one years. He instituted a thorough going reform in cleaning out the idolatrous worship of Baal and repairing the temple which had fallen into neglect and dilapidation. While the work of repair was in progress, Hilkiah made a great discovery.

V. 14. "Hilkiah the priest found the book of the law of Jehovah given by Moses." This statement implies that the book of the law was lost. The Bible is really lost today when it simply adorns a bookcase or if it is read in a perfunctory way or if it is not obeyed. There are many lost Bibles today.

V. 15. "And Hilkiah delivered the book to Shaphan." Shaphan was the scribe whose business was to interpret the law. He indicated the importance of the lost treasure and stirred to action the high priest Hilkiah.

V. 16. "And Shaphan carried the book to the king, saying, all that was committed to thy servants, they are doing." There is no finer indication of one's character than the certainty that he will welcome any newly discovered Bible facts or any helpful Bible interpretation. There is always an added revelation of God to those who are doing their best according to the light they have.

V. 20. "And the king went up to the house of Jehovah and all the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem and the priests and the Levites and all the people, both great and small; and he read in their ears all the words of the book of the covenant that was found in the house of Jehovah." The house of Jehovah was the newly repaired temple. There is a close association of the word of God and the house of God. Able bodied men and women who hold precious the Bible are faithful in public service of worship.

V. 21. "And the king stood in his place, and made a covenant before Jehovah to walk after Jehovah and to keep his commandments and his testimonies and his statutes, with all his heart and with all his soul to perform the words of the covenant." When the one at the head stands in his place as related to God and man and furnishes that religious leadership which will make all citizens understand their place in relation to God and man, that is an ideal government.

V. 22. "And the inhabitants of Jerusalem did according to the covenant of God, the God of their fathers." This is the ideal expression of a loyal people; real patriotism is something more than "hail the king."

V. 33. "And Josiah took away all the abominations out of all the countries that pertained to the children of Israel and made all that were found in Israel to serve, even to serve Jehovah their God. All this day, they departed not from following Jehovah, the God of their fathers." All that is sinful must be eliminated from the life of a true child of God.

Discussion on Questions S.S. Lesson

1. How make sure that we are not losing our Bible?
2. What are some good ways for reading the Bible profitably?
3. How can we make Bible study more attractive?

4. What is the test of Bible reading and study?
5. What would be the result if our Bible were lost?

6. How can we introduce the Bible more generally into our national life?
J. Douglas Adam says, "Fidelity is God's standard and it is the one thing needful. There is something materially wrong with the man whose object is success, and it is paralyzing his power, destroying his peace, and spoiling his joy. There is something better than success, and that is the consciousness of the presence of God."

Lesson Prayer: "O Lord, help us to seek Thee first and to use Thy word as a means in finding Thee. Forbid that we should neglect the teaching of Thy word and live independently. We thank Thee for the strength and comfort that has come when Thy promises are fulfilled in us."

BOOK REVIEW

Church Forum

1. How promote missionary reading in the church? There should be some definite plan, since effective missionary education does not simply happen; the Sunday School, young peoples' meetings, prayer meetings, church nights, brotherhood meetings may be organizations through which missionary reading may be carried on. Some person or committee should be selected to promote the program. The following methods have been used with success in many churches:

Have a lending library composed of carefully selected books on missionary subjects, well written, up-to-date, accurate and covering the main aspects of missionary work. Books which fail to give a true picture of present conditions and needs, whether because they are too old or because of faulty authorship, should be eliminated.

One of the most important items is to work out some plan of having the books read, as a library is of value only as it is used. In one church, bulletin boards were put in the church vestibule and in each department of the school, on which were posted weekly notices of special books with some catchy statement, revoking the reading of the book. Current events having missionary interest published in periodicals may be posted on the bulletin board. In another church a brief review of a good mission book was occasionally published in the church bulletin.

In another church the missionary committee arranged with a goodly number of persons to be on the lookout for interesting and important missionary items in books and periodicals reporting the same to a committee who arranged a special time for making these reports.

The general council of the Presbyterian Church in the United States voted to submit to the general assembly meeting in St. Paul next month an overture to amend the form of government so as to give women entire equality with men, giving them a right to sit in the courts of the church, have memberships in the synods and general assembly, become elders and clergy.

71st Congress Gets Under Way in Important Session

This general view shows the opening prayer in the 71st Congress at Washington, D. C. Although the leaders plan to speed the work of the special session, knotty problems of farm relief and tariff revision would seem to indicate long debates, Representative Nicholas Longworth accepting his re-election as speaker put forward the suggestion that the House get through with its part of the legislation early and leave it up to the Senate to follow suit, thus speeding the whole session.

Women Members of Congress at Opening

Seven of the eight women members of Congress were in their seats when the 71st session opened, Mrs. Katherine Langley of Kentucky being absent because of illness. They are, left to right front row, Mrs. Pearl P. Oldfield of Arkansas, Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers of Mas-

British Ruler Receives Hearty Welcome

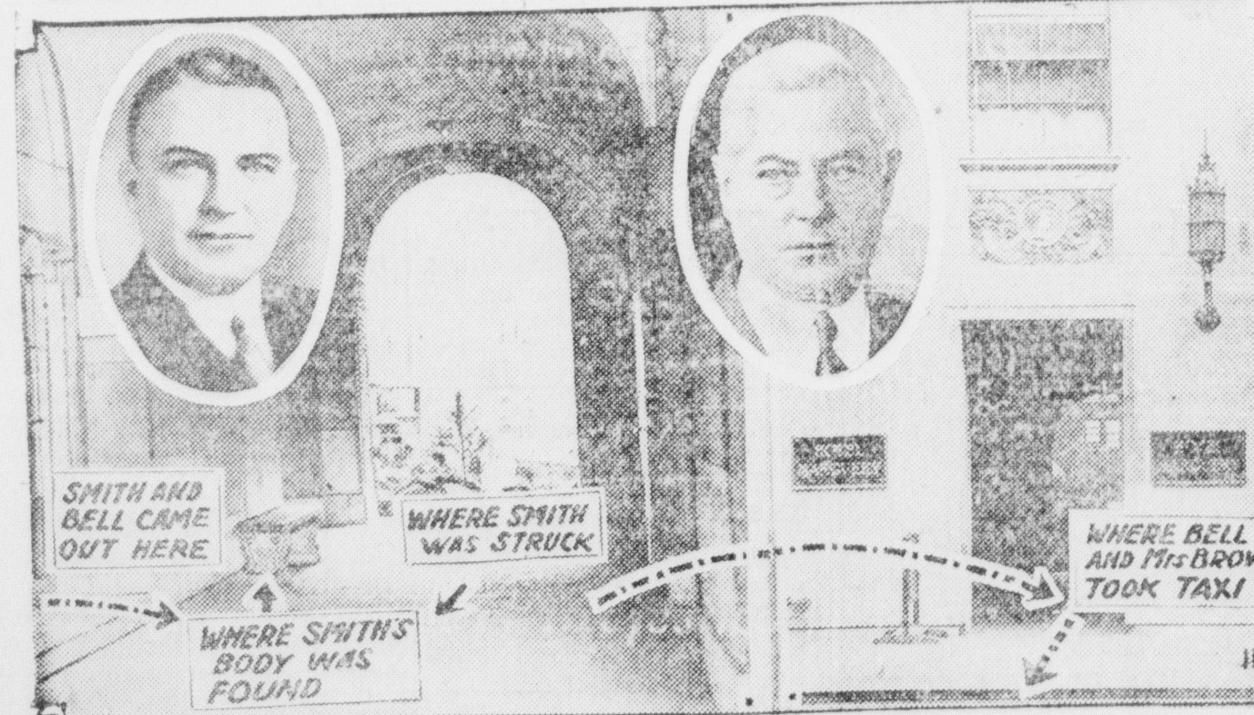

Recuperating rapidly from his recent serious illness, universal greetings of welcome are accorded King George as his public appearances become more and more frequent. He is shown here with Queen Mary as he appeared at Bognor, England, acknowledging sincere, hearty greetings of Easter Monday merry-makers outside of the Craigwell House, where the King and Queen resided during their stay there. King George amazed everybody with his remarkable recovery, which for a time looked very dubious and necessitated the Prince of Wales' cutting short a vacation on the Nile.

Park Avenue Mystery Bares Secret Love

In the background of the strange demise of Arthur Morgan Smith, Cleveland, Ohio, millionaire, following an argument with Samuel W. Bell outside the exclusive Hotel Marguery in New York, lurks the secret love affair of Bell, held in homicide charges, and Mrs. Robert L. Brown, Lexington, Ky. matron. Bell is being held by the police without bail pending the outcome of investigation into the finding of Smith, fatally injured in the gutter outside the hotel, and Mrs. Brown is being held as material witness. Bell is alleged to have objected strenuously to Smith's attentions to Mrs. Brown following a party in Mrs. Robert Schuette's Hotel Marguery apartment, and to have pushed Smith into the gutter. The photograph above shows the principal scenes in the drama.

Big Combination

Gordon S. Rentschler, newly elected president of the National City Bank, measures right up to the size of being the leader of the biggest bank in the country by being six feet four inches tall. He is probably the biggest man in the banking business in more ways than one.

Oil Magnate Must Serve Jail Sentence

Harry F. Sinclair, right, millionaire oil man, will start a three-month "vacation" at the expense of Uncle Sam in the nice quiet jail of the District of Columbia, shown above. Major Peake, left, will play the role of host whether the guest likes it or no, since the Supreme Court upheld the ninety-day sentence for contempt imposed on the magnate for refusing to answer the Senate's Teapot Dome Committee's questions.

Singer Tells Charges Against Star

Mme. Lydia Lindgren, right, Swedish singer, is filing suit for $250,000 in New York against Julia Claussen, left, Metropolitan prima donna, who Mme. Lindgren charges slandered and defamed her character. She charges that reports were spread that her operatic career was furthered through the unduly friendly interest of a New York financier. Mme. Claussen denies all the allegations saying that she has known Mme. Lindgren for ten years, but has only met her three times and then only casually.

'Lone Eagle' May Make Church Famous

Characteristic simplicity marks the interior (left) of the North Haven, Me., church where "Lindy" and Anne Morrow will probably be joined in marriage. At the right is a view of the exterior of the church situated in a beautiful spot of the peaceful little Maine town.

14 Race Horses Perish in Fire at Track

These firemen are shown drenching the smoldering ruins of the $50,000 stable at Havre De Grace, Md., race track in which 14 thoroughbreds valued at $75,000 were destroyed. The fire was caused by the upsetting of an oil stove in the stableboys' quarters where some of the boys were cooking a meal.

Comikers Make New Pal Feel at Home

Just to show their good fellowship this group of famous comic artists attended the dinner to Percy Crosby, creator of "Skippy," at the Hotel Warwick, New York, in honor of his coming marriage to Miss Dale Locke. Left to right they are Harry Hershfield, Louis Biedermann, Jack Callahan, Russell Peterson, Percy Crosby, Bert Green, Cliff Sterrett and Harold Knerr. Just look them over and pick your favorite.

Bankruptcy Mystery Man

This picture of Max Pinner was made as he hurried away from a session of bankruptcy ring inquiry at New York.

The confession of David Steinhardt, fugitive bankruptcy lawyer, who took his life at Philadelphia just as he was to give to the authorities, is termed sensational. Max Pinner, a former deputy Federal court clerk, will be questioned again on the basis of the facts disclosed in Steinhardt's written confession.

JAIL TERM TAKES MANY POUNDS FROM ANTI-SALOON LEAGUER

Dr. E. S. Shumaker before entering the state prison farm, left, and right, after his release.

By FRANK A. WHITE
Central Press Staff Writer

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 25.—That the involuntary stay of Dr. E. S. Shumaker, head of the Indiana Anti-Saloon League, in the penal farm at Putnamville for fifty-three days for contempt of court, may have serious effects, is the fear of his friends. Those who saw Shumaker prior to his entry in the farm and following his release declare that he paid a price of many pounds.

Bested Physically
Shumaker, who next July 30 will celebrate his sixty-third birthday, went into confinement as Prisoner No. 34924 with a sturdy physique built up from eating fried chicken as a Methodist minister throughout Hoosierdom. The veteran dry leader, who had founsted with the devil and king alcohol for twenty-three years came out as much bested physically as he was in his trial before the Indiana supreme court. "I was terribly alarmed when I looked into the mirror at home for the first time in fifty-three days and saw how much weight I had lost," says Dr. Shumaker, whose first act upon reaching his home was to take a hot bath.

"I had told the reporters I lost only seven pounds, but I fear it was much more. You see, in the prison I had only a small cracked mirror. What another prisoner owned, and could not see but half of my face at once."

Clothes Droop About Him
Shumaker's civilian clothes droop about him, and Mrs. Shumaker has called in a tailor to have them cut down to fit. It is said that the dry leader lost thirty-nine pounds while in prison. He was on a diet when he was committed, and the prison fare is plain.

The Indiana Anti-Saloon League, of which he is the head, is reported facing a crisis. Shumaker says that the league was $10,000 in debt, and of this amount $6,000 was the cost of his trial. Other discouragements face the veteran dry leader, who has taken up his work. Choice "Bourbon" made in the hills of Indiana, is retailed within one block of his pretensions offices in the Roosevelt building at $3.50 a pint, and "mule" can be had for less.

WOMAN GIVEN $300 DAMAGES IN ACTION BASED ON ACCIDENT

For personal injuries sustained in an auto accident on the Dayton-Xenia Pike near the Hawker Reformed Church November 21, 1928, Mrs. Minnie J. Neill, colored, E. Market St., was awarded $300 damages against Ben South, police chief of Wilmington, by a jury in Common Pleas Court Friday morning.

Mrs. Neill had brought suit for $2,636 for personal injuries alleged to have been suffered in a collision between the auto in which she was riding as the guest of Mrs. Mary Watson and H. O. Watson, colored, this city, and that occupied by Mr. and Mrs. South.

Her suit was the last of four civil actions for damages brought against Chief South as a result of the auto collision and was the first to be tried in court.

Mrs. Neill in her petition asked $2,500 damages for personal injuries, $50 for damage to her wearing apparel, $50 for nurse hire and $36 for medical expenses.

Three other actions for damages aggregating $6,520.25 are still pending against Chief South, filed in connection with the same accident. These cases have not been assigned for trial.

Charging that Chief South was driving on the wrong side of the road and was entirely to blame for the accident, Mrs. Neill set forth that her injuries consisted of cuts and bruises on the body requiring stitches to be taken in the cheek and ear. One ear was severed from her head. She was confined to bed for two weeks, was unable to leave the house for more than a month and the injuries to her face and head will leave permanent scars, she asserted.

The trial began Thursday and was resumed Friday because the taking of testimony was not completed when court adjourned Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. South, who was seriously injured in the crash and was a patient for a time at Miami Valley

Hospital in Dayton, was unable to attend the trial and her deposition was introduced.

Two of the three suits still pending against South were brought by Mrs. Mary Watson, who asks to be awarded $2,000 damages as compensation for injuries and $500 for damage to the automobile.

Her son, H. O. Watson, asks damages in the sum of $1,020.25 in another suit.
Marshall and Marshall were attorneys for the plaintiff and F. L. Johnson was counsel for the defendant.

The World And All

HIDEAWAY FOR THE NEXT WAR

WHERE are you going to hide when the next war comes? Have you a place of safety picked out for your money, your scrap book, or your family?

The next war, you know, isn't going to be fought on some conveniently distant western front. The earth is going to be one big, united front, with the sky as the left flank and the bottom of the ocean the right. Flying and crawling machines are going to search out the homes of the war-makers and the hovels of the peacemakers, and the rain of poisons and explosives will fall upon the just and upon the unjust.

FRANCE is going in for hideaways. France knows something about wars, and has learned to take them seriously. Construction of hideaways is the primary occupation of the French republic at this time. Money is being spent lavishly on the most grandiose schemes for housing armies and treasure far beneath the surface, secure from attack and explosions. National debts and other considerations can wait while France prepares a place for her army and money during the next war.

A few sketchy details have leaked out regarding the great underground galleries, many miles and acres in extent, that France is building under the mountains near her frontiers. The Nicaragua canal, over the construction of which the richest nation in the world hesitates and ponders, is a trifle compared with the hollowing out of mountain ranges that is going forward quietly in France.

THE April World's Work contains a very interesting article about the subterranean fortress that has been constructed under the heart of Paris, to house the Bank of France in the next war. It is an amazing engineering achievement. It has walls of concrete and sand, twenty feet thick. It is large enough to house comfortably the entire Bank of France with all its clerks, guards, officers and furniture; all its treasures and records.

It will house also a large military company to guard the treasure in war time, and has storehouses, kitchens, living quarters and provisions, designed to serve during a long siege or bombardment.

One can't foresee everything, of course, and maybe such an underground treasure house can be depopulated with one little bomb in the next war.

A few sketchy details have leaked out regarding the great underground galleries, many miles and acres in extent, that France is building under the mountains near her frontiers. The Nicaragua canal, over the construction of which the richest nation in the world hesitates and ponders, is a trifle compared with the hollowing out of mountain ranges that is going forward quietly in France.

THE April World's Work contains a very interesting article about the subterranean fortress that has been constructed under the heart of Paris, to house the Bank of France in the next war. It is an amazing engineering achievement. It has walls of concrete and sand, twenty feet thick. It is large enough to house comfortably the entire Bank of France with all its clerks, guards, officers and furniture; all its treasures and records.

It will house also a large military company to guard the treasure in war time, and has storehouses, kitchens, living quarters and provisions, designed to serve during a long siege or bombardment.

One can't foresee everything, of course, and maybe such an underground treasure house can be depopulated with one little bomb in the next war.

JIMMY JAMS

READ THIS FIRST:

The plot concerns some weird underground noises beneath a supposedly haunted house in Byford Moor. One day, Brown, a romantic young clerk, heard a rough-looking fellow say to another, "After her! And—she's the trouble—don't be particular what you do to her!" Brown follows the girl to warn her, and the trail leads at night to the haunted house. When a locked door is broken open a body pitches out. Brown's two companions, Rupert and Charlie, go to the village inn for the night. They question the maid at the hotel about the mysterious sounds beneath the house.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XV

"I dunno as I believe it, sir, I don't know as I did afore this man come. Them booms—we've 'eard them for years. My grandmother, she uster say she 'eard 'em afore the explosion in the mine. But, o' course," she added, "you 'ear 'em more loud in that ther Coomber 'Ouse."

"Have you heard them?" "What, there? Not me!" "But you've heard them—here?" "Sometimes. Jest faint, you know. You want to be nearer the cliff to 'ear 'em proper."

"Well, there you are," said the maid, drawing her red robe closer around her, "we thort it was the sea boom'n' agin the rocks. When the wind's one way, and the sea's rough. Yes, that's what we thort afore all these tales got round. 'Tis the sea, that's what it is, Sally, my grandmother uster say to me, 'The sea agin the rocks, when the sea's rough.'"

"Well, that seems to me most reasonable," nodded Rupert, glancing at Charlie. "Don't you agree?" "Yes, certainly. If the booms are only heard when the sea is rough."

"They looked at the maid, and a rather scared expression entered her face."

"I've 'eard 'em once, so I have, when it was calm," she announced, emphatically. "About this time o' night, it was, I was readin', and there wasn't a stir, and then, all of a sudden—bang!" She shuddered. "So when they talk about the di-strict bein' 'aunted, that makes you think, Well, wouldn't it?"

"I should think it would," nodded Rupert, "although personally I don't believe one bit in ghosts. Look here, if those sounds are all the gossip-mongers have to go upon, my verdict is—bosh."

"Praps there's something more, though?" asked Charlie. Sally hesitated. She didn't like talking about these things. Lady Violet would be more comfortable. For, after all, Lady Violet was only in a book, and although she could send real little thrills up your spine, she wasn't real herself. Whereas, Coomber House—

"Is there something more?" persisted Rupert.

"There's—there's one thing more, yes, there is," replied Sally. "There—there was a caretaker disappeared."

"I say! Are you sure of that?" exclaimed Rupert, interested.

"Sure? Well, everybody knows! Of course, I'm sure!"

"How did he disappear?"

"E jest walked off. Got frightened. They couldn't get nobody to go and be caretaker, not after these stories got around, but presently this man 'e came along, and 'e takes the job."

"One moment. Who does the house belong to?"

"Belong to? Let me think, now. Well, I forget the owner's name, but 'e's one o' them what they calls these abshin landlords. Been in Canada for years, and no one's took the place. Well, this caretaker, 'e comes along one day, and says 'e's not afraid, dear me no! Says it to my very face, 'e does, in this very room, 'e did, standing over there, 'e was. And 'e stays at Coomber 'Ouse two days, that's all 'e stays there, and then runs away." She closed her eyes, visualizing the frenzied flight, then opened them suddenly. "Ay, and what I say is—what did 'e see that make 'im run away and never be seen no more?"

"Something pretty unpleasant, I should imagine," commented Charlie. "Andbody see him slope off?"

"What's that, sir?"

"I said, did anybody see the caretaker skedaddle—scoot—run away?"

"No one see 'im," she answered. "E just wasn't there in the morn'."

"H'm. That does sound rather bad," admitted Rupert, seriously. "Has there been any caretaker since?"

"No sir."

"Frightened off, eh?"

"Everybody is."

"And—how long ago was this?"

"A week, sir."

"Only a week!" exclaimed Rupert. And suddenly grew thoughtful.

There was a silence. Sally decided that just a few pages more of Lady Violet were necessary to restore her perfect happiness and her peace of mind. She cleared her throat slightly, and asked if there was anything further she could do.

"Your room'll be No. 6, sir, at the 'ead of the stairs," she added. "Thanks," replied Rupert. "No, I don't think there's anything further, and I'm sure we'll be quite comfortable. Oh—yes, there is just one more thing I'd like to know. Have you many more guests staying here? Will there be a rush for the bathroom at—say—seven o'clock?" "Gracious, no!" replied the maid. "Not at that time of the morn'!"

"Capital. No other visitors have come along this evening, then?" "No, sir. Nobody."

Rupert and Charlie exchanged glances. The young lady whose lost glove button Rupert possessed was not staying at the Yellow Stag, evidently. "But what about that other man you mentioned—the member of the 'Physical Research?' inquired Charlie. "Perhaps he's an early bather?"

"Well, I should say not! 'E 'as 'is breakfast took up to 'im, 'e does, Mr. Brill's too old fer cold bathin' at seven o'clock in the morn'!"

And while her guests became absorbed in thoughts of Mr. Simon Brill, she, herself, returned to Lady Violet, who stood with only a purple curtain between her and danger.

Rupert was the only applicant for the bathroom at 7 a. m. on the following morning. Mr. Simon Brill made no claim, and Charlie, bulging peacefully beneath his sheets, was still sleeping off the effects of a hectic hours. Thus Rupert splashed in his cold tub undisturbed, and since his somnolent companion showed no disposition to wake up when he returned invigorated to the bedroom, he did not disturb him, but, dressing quickly and quietly, slipped out of the hotel alone.

Sally saw him go. She watched him from her lofty window, and was so impressed with his athletic back that she spent an extra five seconds on her toilette.

A village of black was now a village of amber. The impotence, as well as the fears of night, had departed, giving way to the all-consuming optimism of early morning. You may go to bed depressed, and may wake up depressed, but a cold tub and the glow of virgin sunlight will re-establish your belief both in yourself and in the universe. Or, if they will not, you have gone sadly down the path of spiritual decay.

Rupert, certainly, had not gone down that path. His health, his philosophy, and his youth protected him, and he responded to all the glories of a splendid morning. Possibly, on the previous evening, he had been a little impatient. Possibly his initiative had been a little low. Well, today he would set that right, and would grasp this adventure firmly, with both hands. He would seek the romance in it, but he would not ignore the logic of it. The shadows should be solidified and dealt with.

1 said, did anybody see the caretaker skedaddle—scoot—run away?

She shook her head.

"No one see 'im," she answered. "E just wasn't there in the morn'ing."

"H'm. That does sound rather bad," admitted Rupert, seriously. "Has there been any caretaker since?"

"No sir."

"Frightened off, eh?"

"Everybody is."

"And—how long ago was this?"

"A week, sir."

"Only a week?" exclaimed Rupert. And suddenly grew thoughtful.

There was a silence. Sally decided that just a few pages more of Lady Violet were necessary to restore her perfect happiness and her peace of mind. She cleared her throat slightly, and asked if there was anything further she could do.

The Theater

Don't start eating chocolates at once, dearie! Ned Wayburn, Broadway beauty proponent and dance mentor says the slim figures will still rule and that curves are NOT coming back.

Wayburn issues his ultimatum in defiance of the statement of Chas. B. Cochrane, London extravaganza producer, who has set sound waves bellowing across the Atlantic to the effect that the sylph-like figure is passe and plumpness will again hold sway.

Wayburn says Broadway is not ready to accept a reversion to the 1898 style of stage beauty and Fifth Ave. backs him up. "The buxom figure is as much a part of the past and as dead as the mid-Victorian dress and yesterday's newspaper," he says. "London may want its women plump, but those who are plump today are the fat ladies of tomorrow and neither London nor New York nor Timbuctoo, for that matter, wants its females fat."

"The Gay Nineties was the hey-day of the over-shapely ladies of the ensemble," Wayburn continues. "The front rows exalted their excessively generous lines. But these girls and women soon lost their figures. The curves became lines—straight lines from the shoulders to the knees. And so while the Nineties demanded their proper but still worked in the show and appeared at George Olson's night club, getting only five hours sleep a day.

Your correspondent having been taken to task for the critical nature of the review of the recent Theater Guild shows, is very much pained. Having tried for weeks to create a controversial issue to learn whether anyone is reading this column, and perhaps, to learn who he is, finally aroused interest enough to get one letter and it was—you guessed it—anonymous. A beautifully bitter thing too, that might have put this column definitely on its feet. Oh well, such is life.

Twenty Years '09- Ago -'29

Mr. Clarence Herr, who has acquired quite a reputation as a dealer in fancy hunting dogs, has been spending all of his spare time during the last few days swearing dire vengeance against a certain Pennsylvania Dutchman who "did" him in a dog trade through a magazine advertisement.

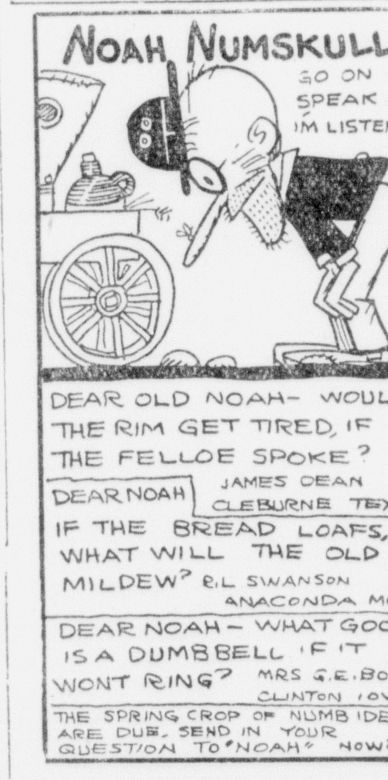

The H. E. Schmidt grocery will be enlarged by a fifty-foot addition in the rear of the building at present occupied by this store.

The Grand Hotel building which was recently leased by Lyman Collins, is being completely overhauled by its owner, H. E. Schmidt.

Pitcher Hidy fanned fourteen batters and Antioch College's baseball team won its third straight game, beating the Wittenberg College freshmen 7 to 2.

PAVING DISCUSSED BY COMMISSIONERS

Advisability of paving Maple St. and that part of Chestnut St. from High to Maple St. was given serious consideration by City Commissioners Thursday night. No definite action was taken and the sentiment of property owners will be sounded.

It is estimated the cost of the project would be at least $12,000.

Commissioners also placed on file a petition asking that Chestnut St., from Maple St. to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, be improved.

The commission authorized the transfer of transmission telephone lines from the east to the west side of the Springfield Pike for a distance of a mile and one-half at a point north of Old Town, passing in front of the municipal water-works plant.

M'DOWELL LAKE AT HOME IS DRAINED

In order that needed repairs to the walls may be made and for the purpose of providing swimming facilities for the pupils, McDowell lake at the O. S. and S. O. Home has been drained.

Bass taken from the lake was transferred to the Xenia Fish Hatchery. Some red carp were also removed from the lake.

The lake bottom will be covered with sand and gravel for swimming purposes.

Charged with abandoning her three minor children, Emma Kiser Caraway, Bowersville is being held in the County Jail pending a hearing in Probate Court Friday. She entered a not guilty plea when arraigned.

"KONJOLA FOE TO RHEUMATISM" LADY DECLARES

Stomach and Kidney Troubles of Most Stubborn Sort Yield To New Compound.

"When I look back over the past few years and realize how I suffered, and then think what relief this new Konjola has brought to me in such a short time, I can hardly believe it to be true," said Mrs. Evelyn Ackley, South High St. and High Ave., Washington C. H.

"I had rheumatism, stomach trouble, kidney ailment and was so nervous that the slightest sound or annoyance almost set me wild. The rheumatic pains were more than I could bear. The kidneys and bladder broke my night's rest. Everything I ate caused misery. Then this glorious Konjola came into my life. Today I am on the broad, bright highway to health after a treatment of just two weeks. The change that just two bottles have brought over me is amazing, and I can hardly wait until I have completed the full treatment. No wonder Konjola is known as the medicine with more than a million friends."

Konjola is different from any other known remedy in this section. It contains 22 juices extracted from natural plants, which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy action. The effect of Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that has been going on for years. At the same time, many weak and run-down systems have been restored to a new state of health thru this compound. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new medical product, until now, Konjola is the most highly indorsed medicine that is known in this vicinity.

Konjola is sold in Xenia at the Gallaher Drug Store, and by all the best druggists throughout this entire section. —Adv.

Four Important Styles in Hairdress

Leila Hyams presents an interesting group of coiffeurs, representing four epochal periods in history. On the left she appears as the lady who tempted Adam so many aeons ago, showing us how Eve must have worn her golden tresses. Above (center) she poses in the style of hairdress in vogue when John Hancock signed that famous document, while below (center) we see the coy little curls adopted by the best ladies of the Revolutionary period. Bringing this study to a close, Miss Hyams, as the modern Eve (right), shorn of her original knee-length glory, in one of the most popular bobs of the day.

SECOND U. P. CHOIR SERVICE ON SUNDAY

Bringing to a culmination the winter series of evening services at the Second United Presbyterian Church, the choir of that congregation will render a sacred song service next Sunday evening at 7:30. The chorus choir, consisting of twenty singers and members of that church will give a program of anthems, mixed and male quartets, solos, duets and organ numbers.

This service will replace the regular Sunday evening preaching service at the church. Friends of the choir and of the Second Church are cordially invited to attend this sacred service of song.

Sore, Disfiguring Rashes quickly overcome

The quickness with which Resinol Soap and Ointment act in most cases of skin disorder amazes many people. Itching is often stopped at once. The soap cleanses the skin and prepares it to receive the ointment, which soothes and heals. The daily use of Resinol Soap for the toilet and bath is unexcelled for keeping the skin clear, soft and youthful. Note its tonic odor.

PAVING DISCUSSED
BY COMMISSIONERS

Advisability of paving Maple St., and that part of Chestnut St. from High to Maple St., was given serious consideration by City Commission Thursday night. No definite action was taken and the sentiment of property owners will be sounded.

It is estimated the cost of the project would be at least $12,000.

Commissioners also placed on file a petition asking that Chestnut St. from Maple St. to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, be improved.

The commission authorized the transfer of transmission telephone lines from the east to the west side of the Springfield Pike for a distance of a mile and one-half at a point north of Old Town, passing in front of the municipal water-works plant.

M'DOWELL LAKE AT

Work taken from the lake was transferred to the Xenia Fish Hatchery. Some red carp were also removed from the lake.

The lake bottom will be covered with sand and gravel for swimming purposes.

"KONJOLA FOE TO RHEUMATISM"
LADY DECLARES

Stomach and Kidney Troubles of Most Stubborn Sort Yield To New Compound.

"When I look back over the past few years and realize how I suffered, and then think what relief this new Konjola has brought to me in such a short time, I can hardly believe it to be true," said Mrs. Evelyn Ackley, South Hinde St. and High Ave., Washington, C. D.

"I had rheumatism, stomach trouble, kidney ailment and was so nervous that the slightest sound or annoyance almost set me wild. The rheumatic pains were more than I could bear. The kidneys and bladder broke my night's rest. Everything I ate caused misery.

"Then this glorious Konjola came into my life. Today I am on the broad, bright highway to health after a treatment of just two weeks. The change that just two bottles have brought over me is amazing, and I can hardly wait until I have completed the full treatment. No wonder Konjola is known as the medicine with more than a million friends."

Konjola is different from any other known remedy in this section. It contains 22 juices extracted from natural plants, which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy action. The effect of Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that has been going on for years. At the same time, many weak and run-down systems have been restored to a new state of health thru this compound. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new medical product, until now, Konjola is the most highly endorsed medicine that is known in this vicinity.

Konjola is sold in Xenia at the Gallaher Drug Store, and by all the best druggists throughout this entire section.

Four Important Styles in Hairdress

Leila Hyams presents an interesting group of coiffeurs, representing four epochal periods in history. On the left she appears as the lady who tempted Adam so many aeons ago, showing us how Eve must have worn her golden tresses. Above (center) she poses in the style of hairdress in vogue when John Hancock signed that famous document, while below (center) we see the coy little curls adopted by the best ladies of the Revolutionary period. Bringing this study to a close, Miss Hyams, as the modern Eve (right), shorn of her original knee-length glory, in one of the most popular bobs of the day.
